U.S. AID PREREQUISITE . . .

Agencies Obey '64 Rights Law

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

All Nebraska state government departments which receive federal aid have assured Washington that they are not discriminating against anyone because of his race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

The 1964 U.S. civil rights act requires state government agencies receiving federal aid to give Washington anti-discrimination assurances before the aid is forthcoming.

Approximately one-third of Nebraska's 66 departments and agencies gets federal money or matching funds in one form or another. All of them have received Washington's approval of their statements of compliance with the civil rights law.

Plans Vary

Plans for compliance vary among the state agencies and their federal counterparts, but basically the state agency must agree in writing to comply with the act, promulgate rules and have its plan approved.

For the most part, no state department has had any difficulty in securing approval of its plan of compliance.

One department whose plan was temporarily held up on "technicalities" said its federal counterpart hadn't made itself clear as to what it wanted.

Another agreed, "The federal boys have been feeling their way along under the civil rights law just as we have."

Fairly Simple

Most departments have found compliance fairly simple, although it involves some red tape and additional paperwork.

Generally involved is the obtaining of written assurances from all contractors or vendors of materials and services paid wholly or in part with federal dollars that they don't and won't discriminate.

Another step is establishing procedure for investigating and hearing any complaint of violations, but most departments just adapt existing hearing procedures.

State Engineer John Hosack explained that highway and construction contracts involving federal aid contain a clause that the contractor will comply with the federal civil rights act.

"We've never had a complaint," Hosack said in outlining his department's hearing procedures.

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller said all school districts receiving federal funds or participating in federal aid programs signed an "assurance of compliance."

Public Welfare Director John Gage, whose departmental plan was the third approved in the nation, said a compliance clause is part of every voucher for services and materials.

"Every doctor, dentist, druggist, nursing home operator or other vendor must certify in addition to the value of the services rendered a federal aid recipient, that he complies with the federal law."

Gage said recipients are periodically informed of the act's provisions and advised to report any complaint of discrimination.

NU Long Before

The University of Nebraska reported the Board of Regents adopted a policy against racial or religious discrimination long before the civil rights act, but that the institution had filed a statement of compliance under federal programs.

Race, national origin or religion is not asked for or kept on NU employment records.

"So," one official explained, "we had to personally check with every employee in filing one required federal program report as to employment by function, race and sex."

"It's like being told 'Don't ask a person's race before you hire him, but find out later and then tell Washington,'" he added.

No Differences

There's no difference between the employment practices of those state departments administering program and those which do not.

Gov. Frank Morrison's administration policy since 1960 against discrimination in employment was recently reinforced by an executive order.

Race, religion or political affiliation is not asked on any state employment application. Nor is a photograph required.

"If someone should ask how many persons of minority races are on the department's payroll," said one administrator, "I couldn't tell him. We don't keep that kind of records."

If there is discrimination in state employment because of race, there's been no complaints.

Morrison recently told his Civil Rights Commission to report any discrimination in state employment to him personally, but none has been reported, according to Gene Budig, gubernatorial administrative assistant.

Winnebago Near Rainbow's End

By JOHN LEE

Outstate Nebraska Bureau
Winnebago—The "Rainbow Project" they call it.

Truly, it would appear to be the end of the rainbow in this community of 680.

Fourteen modern buildings are under construction on the two-block Rainbow Project site, Indian-dominated Winnebago's low-rent answer to the problem of inadequate housing.

Two old houses were torn down to make room for the 30-unit village within a village.

On a 40-year loan basis, Public Housing Administration funds totalling nearly $510,000 were made available for its construction.

"One Of Best" "This is going to be one of the best in the entire region," commented Bureau of Indian Affairs officer Leonard Lay of Aberdeen, S.D., on a recent visit.

Ten of the living quarters, two four-plex structures and a duplex, are reserved for the elderly.

The others, which will carry monthly rental tags of approximately $35 to $70, will accommodate families of almost any size. All duplexes, they offer two, three or four bedrooms. The four-plexes and two-bedroom units are on one floor, the remainder two-story.

Easy maintenance is "built-in" to the brick-faced concrete construction with steel window frames, noted Paul Kimmons of Lincoln, an inspector for architect Leo A. Daly Co. of Omaha. A refrigerator, stove and built-in cabinets are included in the rental package.

Centered in the burgeoning complex is a community building with offices, a kitchen, laundry and meeting room.

In time, landscaping, walks, paved parking lot, shuffleboard court and barbecue pit will enhance the development.

Completion is planned for mid-December by general contractor, the McHan Construction Co. of Sioux City, Ia.

Dedication ceremonies will follow, as dictated by the weather, noted Mrs. Angela Little Beaver, executive director of the Housing Authority of Winnebago.

'No Trouble Filling'

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Frank J. Hulsman serves as chairman of the authority and is assisted by Vice-Chairman Willis Kroger and commissioners Thomas F. Harden, George Rockwell and Mrs. Elizabeth L. Snow.

"I don't think we'll have any trouble filling the houses," assured Mrs. Little Beaver. "We already have 21 families registered and many more interested."

"The people are real anxious for them to be done. Those who have applied are ready to move in."

"This project is something Winnebago can be very proud of," beamed the director.

U.S. Troops Repel Reds' Night Attack

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—Viet Cong guerrillas launched a night attack Sunday against American paratroopers in the battle-scarred central highlands and were beaten off. The Communists left four dead behind.

The small-scale Viet Cong attack was the latest outbreak of fighting near An Khe where units of the U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Brigade clashed Saturday with a strong enemy force.

After being pinned down for 24 hours, the U.S. troops started moving forward again Sunday in the rough terrain. Together with Vietnamese forces they continued the sweep early Monday through the valley and foothills that were bombed extensively Saturday and Sunday by air force planes.

Reliable U.S. sources reported that no U.S. casualties were taken in the Sunday night action.

The 327th Battalion of the 101st Brigade was the unit attacked.

The airborne troops came under heavy fire Saturday when they first landed in the area by helicopter. Only about a company and a half—perhaps 200 men—successfully made landings. Viet Cong fire drove off the others until late Sunday.

By daybreak Sunday, however, the remainder of the force was moving in and U.S. jet and propeller-driven planes and artillery blasted fleeing guerrillas by Sunday afternoon.

In Saigon, U.S. military authorities said 30 Viet Cong had been killed.

Later reports from military officers near An Khe, however, said American troops had counted 46 Viet Cong killed and five wounded prisoners taken. They said these figures did not include Viet Cong believed killed in heavy air and artillery attacks.

The battle began with an airborne operation 17 miles northeast of An Khe where the newly arrived U.S. 1st Cavalry Division has set up its base camp.

An Khe is about 250 miles northeast of Saigon.

The battle centered around An Ninh, where the Viet Cong were dug in along a river and held a hill controlling the area. Heavy guerrilla ground fire kept fresh men and supplies out of the area most of Saturday. Overnight, support aircraft using flares kept the Viet Cong from launching an assault in the dark to overrun the outnumbered airborne troops.

Peking Extends Threat Deadline

. . . INDIANS HOLDING FIRM

New Delhi, India (AP)—Fresh Communist Chinese troops were reported advancing Sunday through the Himalayan passes toward India's northern frontier, but there was no crossing as Peking extended its ultimatum to New Delhi by three days.

The Indian defense ministry said the Chinese took up positions near Ladakh, a disputed sector of northeast Kashmir, and one of the places where they crossed over in their invasion of India three years ago.

In Spite Of It

Despite Peking's postponement of a showdown, Indian officials showed no inclination to bend before the Chinese threat of "grave consequences" if India does not dismantle frontier military posts in Sikkim, an Indian protectorate 1,000 miles east of Kashmir.

Soviet Diplomats, like their American and British counterparts, joined the flurry of backstage efforts in New Delhi and Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital, to end the fighting between India and Pakistan over Kashmir. The Russians appeared as concerned as others with the threat of an even broader conflict between China and India.

Angered by the peacemaking efforts of their estranged communist partner, the Chinese accused the Russians of singing the same tune as the United States and India in the U.N. Security Council debate on the Kashmir fighting and the Peking ultimatum.

The Pakistanis, too, appeared worried about an escalation of the conflict. In Rawalpindi, officials indicated their government was concerned over the possibility of an outbreak of war between China and India. They again denied the Indian charge that Pakistan had conspired with Peking to bring the Chinese into the crisis.

Prepared

Echoing Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's initial rebuff of the Chinese, Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan told a nationwide radio audience Sunday that India is prepared to face the Chinese threat with "grim determination."

Shastri, who offered to join the Chinese in an investigation of the border dispute, was expected to reply to Peking's latest declaration in parliament Monday.

The Chinese said they extended the deadline because India had shown a change of heart in a note to Peking in connection with Chinese charges that aggressive Indian military posts had been established in Chinese territory or on the border.

Claim Indian Admission

The Chinese claimed that India in effect admitted the possibility that the military posts had existed. India had said it would be glad jointly to investigate the charges made by China and would dismantle any posts found to be on Chinese territory.

Initial reaction in New Delhi was that China was threatening an attack toward West Bengal state and the Indian plains.

Position Weak

But with two troop sightings near Kashmir, India's position there was being re-examined and in some respects being found weak.

The Indian government is reported confident it has backing against China from the big powers, including the United States and Britain.

One thing worrying New Delhi was China's repeated references to its support for the "people of Kashmir in their struggle for the right of national self-determination."

Professor's Son

'Denied School' Because Of Hair

Houston, Tex. (AP)—The son of a university professor has been expelled from high school because of his haircut.

Stephen Mackey, 14, told his father the principal at Lamar High School ordered him to get what the principal considers a proper haircut.

Dr. Louis H. Mackey, a Rice University professor, said his son has a Prince Charles haircut now. The father contends his Stephen looks well-groomed when his hair is combed.

"This principal is denying my boy his right to an education," Mackey said. The professor said he would seek a hearing before the school board.

LINCOLN—Monday's skies will be cloudy bringing some showers and drizzle. Highs will be mild to upper 60's.

EAST AND CENTRAL NEBRASKA—Cool temperatures prevail with cloudy skies and some showers. Highs in the 40's and 50's.

Intensive Talks

The intensive behind-the-scenes talks began Sunday morning and continued through afternoon and evening. U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, council president for September, was reported to have talked with President Johnson by telephone at least once.

One factor in the delay was understood to be the news from Moscow that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin had invited Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and president Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan to meet on Soviet territory to discuss their differences.

Secretary-General U Thant suggested to the council Friday that the council issue a binding cease-fire order backed by threats of economic and military reprisals in the event of failure to comply.

Seymour Called True Champion

... CARCASS NOT 'WASTY'

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

"Seymour was a champion all the way."

This is what the packers, extension officials, retail meat observers and show officials had to say about the 1965 Nebraska State Fair 4-H champion in market when it came to carcass evaluation.

Seymour, the Angus and show champion, shown by Mary Beth Wielage, 13, of Beaver Crossing looked good in the show ring and the carcass evaluation has shown that the champion was also a champion in producing excellent beef, the final payoff for the industry.

Dave Williams, University of Nebraska animal science extension man and the state fair's 4-H livestock superintendent, said, "The champion produced a carcass of prime conformation and an over-all top carcass."

Max Jordan, in charge of Gold & Co. meat department, termed the champion "one of the finest 4-H carcasses ever purchased by the store in its long record of acquiring prize 4-H animals."

"The champion produced a carcass with a very nice rib eye, well marbled, and not too wasteful. The kind the industry needs to please consumers," said Jordan.

4-H beef long the target of complaints that prize cattle have been over-fed and are wasteful has in recent years undergone beneficial changes that find live champions producing excellent carcasses and this year's state fair champion is a good example, said show officials.

Last Big Fire Being Overcome

San Francisco (UPI) — A small army of fire fighters battled the last of Northern California's massive brush fires Sunday night with hopes of bringing the last of the blazes under control by Monday.

About 2,000 men were on the lines of five brush and timber fires which had blackened more than 50,000 acres north of San Francisco Bay.

However, 260 fires were already controlled after blackening another 170,000 acres and destroying 600 homes and farm buildings and 600 head of livestock. The fires were the state's worst outbreak in 40 years.

Cabins In Danger

The most serious fire still burning was a 6,000-acre blaze in heavy timber north of the Russian River resort area in Sonoma County. Several summer cabins were endangered. The fire had already destroyed five cabins and a $200,000 lumber mill.

Fire fighting officials were forced to revise their timetable for controlling the blaze but were reasonably optimistic.

"We've been putting more men on this fire as they have become available from other fires," a state division of forestry spokesman said. "None of these fires is causing more trouble than we anticipated."

Nature Helps

Subsiding winds and rising humidity aided efforts to stop the ravaging fires, which had burned over tinder-dry grassland and brush since Thursday. Already controlled were all fires in the Sierra Nevada foothills.

"The situation looks much better, barring a serious change in the weather," a forestry spokesman said.

Damage from the blazes was estimated at $6 million. The biggest fires still out of control were located in Napa County. One had destroyed 16,000 acres and the other 12,200 acres.

In Sonoma County, a 6,000-acre fire and a 4,000-acre blaze continued to burn, while in Yolo County, fire fighters battled a 4,000-acre fire.

'Banjo' Fingered In Wife's Murder

Manila (AP) — The grandson of former President Jose P. Laurel was accused Sunday as a wife-killer, and the controversial family found itself in the midst of scandal.

The grandson, Jaime "Banjo" Laurel, 27, was in Hong Kong when police named him as the slayer of his estranged wife Erlinda and a man, Armando Silva.

Laurel, surrounded by bodyguards and friends at the airport, flew off Saturday as a posse of police, some with Tommy guns, milled around the airport in what they said was a last-minute effort to arrest him.

Parricide, Murder

Barely six hours later, Lt. Col. Enrique Morales called newsmen to his office and announced:

"On the strength of evidence on hand young Laurel is now wanted by the police for parricide and murder."

He said he would contact Interpol (the International Police Organization) to try and arrange the arrest of Laurel. He said police did not arrest Laurel at the airport because they wished to avoid a clash with his bodyguards.

Laurel's father, Jose P. Laurel Jr., is a congressman from Batangas. His grandfather served as president under the Japanese occupation and came close to winning the second postwar presidential election.

Palace Portrait

His service under the Japanese is viewed by most Filipinos as a distasteful sacrifice which saved the nation much grief and his portrait hangs in Malacanang Palace along with all other legally elected presidents.

Police discovered the body of Laurel's 21-year-old estranged wife in her apartment Aug. 16. There were 11 bullets in her body.

On the floor beside her was Silva, 24, son of a retired army colonel. He died within the hour from a bullet in his head, without uttering a word.

The first police officer to investigate the case was removed when he reported Silva had killed the girl and then turned the gun on himself. The finding ignored witnesses who said they had seen several men leave the apartment.

Pressure Hinted

As the investigation dragged on, Manila newspapers hinted at pressure in high places.

Paper Strike Negotiators Exchange Pension Plans

New York (AP) — Negotiators for the American Newspaper Guild and the New York Times exchanged proposals Sunday on the pension issue, one of the major problems in the four-day old newspaper strike-shutdown.

Theodore W. Kheel, the mayor's special mediator, said the guild made the proposal at 6 p.m. and the Times made a counter proposal at 10 p.m. Representatives of the guild and newspaper met in lengthy sessions through Sunday with Kheel, who was named a special mediator by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

The Times was struck Thursday and six other city dailies closed down in support. The New York Post is the only major daily in the city publishing.

The two sides met briefly, then went into separate caucuses.

Shortly after 6 p.m., the negotiators called a two-hour recess for dinner and "individual consultations."

Kheel told newsmen that two actuarial experts had been consulting with the negotiators throughout the day. He said a "definite proposal" had been made on the pension issues, but declined to state which side had put it forward.

The pension issue was described by Kheel as complicated and he said it "may take time."

RESCUE TRIES FAIL, BUT DOG OK AFTER LEAP

Frankfort, Ky. (AP) — A little black and white, stray mongrel dog that attracted attention for almost three hours before he leaped 100 feet down a cliff was reported on the road to recovery today.

Firemen, Civil Defense workers and city employees tried to reach the dog, trapped on a ledge near the top of a cliff behind the city workhouse. A Civil Defense worker volunteered to try to reach the dog by a rope ladder from a helicopter and a call had gone to the state adjutant general's office for the craft when the dog leaped.

A veterinarian hospitalized the dog Friday and said it suffered only bruises and minor internal bleeding.

The word from Ak-Sar-Ben is that a record junior livestock show is in the making for the competition that opens Friday.

Arden Aegerter, director of Ak-Sar-Ben activities, says the entry list on beef is 1,457 animals.

"There is no doubt about it. It looks like a record making year around here," said Aegerter.

Lancaster exhibitors have 157 entries scheduled in the livestock division at Ak-Sar-Ben, according to Cyril Bish, Lancaster County extension agent.

The trend to beef breeding classes where the boy or girl exhibitor can start a herd and not have to go through the heart-breaking experience of selling a calf for slaughter is making some fast gains.

For the first time Lancaster County entries at Ak-Sar-Ben in the beef breeding class will outnumber those that show as market beef.

Ray Johnson of Fremont gave those attending the tractor pulling contest at the state fair an extra thrill. After he had completed his pulling competition he re-adjusted his Simpson B tractor and took off around the race track at a clip that would have rivaled some of the auto race entries.

Johnson is still using the same tractor in pulling contests that he used in tractor races where he was seldom defeated.

He likes to tell the story about the day he was stopped some years back by a safety patrolman for traveling 70 miles an hour down the highway with his tractor.

"The only thing that probably kept me from being arrested was they didn't know what law would apply to a tractor and the patrolman probably had a dim view of the reception he would get when he told his superiors a tractor would travel that fast," said Johnson.

After spending a solid week at the state fair you would think a person would be so sick of fairs he wouldn't care if he ever saw another one. In covering a fair for news you have so many events to secure information on that it is virtually impossible to really sit down and watch the proceedings of the big show.

This made it a treat to visit the Mid-America fair at Topeka last week to see how our neighbors were running their fair.

The Mid-America fair has made splendid progress since I last visited the event nearly 10 years ago. They have some new livestock buildings and like many events they set a new attendance record this year, estimated at more than 500,000 persons for the six day show.

In my estimation there is no comparison with the Nebraska show when it comes to the agricultural part of the fair. Nebraska is bigger and better, but in the midway part of the fair Topeka had us beat by quite some distance.

Since the Nebraska fair and the Mid-America fair are located so close there was a lot of discussion regarding the tragedy on our midway.

When I walked up to the operator of a ride similar in purpose to the one that fell at Lincoln the operator said, "You just say Lincoln and everyone in the nation knows what your talking about."

This operator pointed out that an automatic tension device on his "Swiss type ride" prevented sagging in the cables on the ride and he was quite proud of the spacing and type of support his ride offered.

Already many people are speculating on what the Nebraska Fair Board will do for next year's midway.

The Royal American shows that play the Topeka fair offer an excellent group of rides and shows with the operators all in identical jackets. This show makes the Minnesota state fair which conflicts with the Nebraska dates and is under a three year contract.

Some of those connected with the show at Topeka were asking if Nebraska had considered going "independent" or if the board had contacted any group such as the Century 21 Shows, a newer group with some excellent rides.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results—here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids—without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H®. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters.

WHO TOLD SAM GORDY to take his prescription to Walgreens?

Mrs. Gordy did.

Because when Sam's doctor told him he'd probably be taking the same prescription for some time, Mrs. Gordy "shopped" several places (like a good wife would) to determine just who had the lowest price on that prescription. She found it at Walgreens. Along with high professional standards and Walgreens friendly kind of service.

Sam? He's doing fine.

With a woman like Mrs. Gordy on his side, why shouldn't he.

How You May Never Take a Laxative Again!

New Miracle Regulator Keeps Waste Soft—So Bowels Move Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—After 12 years' research, scientists have discovered a wonder-working substance that corrects constipation entirely without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon—becomes dry, hard, difficult to move. To give relief, laxatives have to force action by flushing, irritating or distending the intestine.

The new miracle substance—known medically as dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate—works in a completely different way. It is not a laxative! It simply makes natural moisture in the colon moisten and soften dry, hard waste more effectively. Then normal elimination follows naturally. Thus by working only on waste, not on you, the substance corrects constipation and restores regularity as no laxative can.

This new discovery has now been made available at drugstores under the name REGULOL. It is safe—not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try REGULOL—discover for yourself that you may never need to take a laxative again!

Omaha Police Wound Man After Hearing Gunshots

Omaha (P)—Thirty-seven-year-old George Knight was reported in fair condition at an Omaha hospital Sunday night with a bullet wound in the hip, suffered when he was shot by a policeman.

Officers Rammon Price and Clarence Jones said they heard several gunshots while patrolling in the 24th and Franklin Streets area early Sunday.

They said they saw a man later identified as Knight running, and Price ordered the man to halt. Price said he fired two shots in the air when he saw a gun in the man's pocket.

Price said he shot at the man's legs when he halted and appeared to be taking the gun from his pocket. The officers said a revolver found near the wounded man contained two spent cartridges and four live rounds and it appeared to have been fired recently.

"They all said I was crazy to race at that age, but I showed 'em," winked Whitcomb as he produced four mounted medals. "Took state championships at four different distances—the one-third mile, the mile, five and 10."

For years his treasured White Flyer has been brought forth for a special occasion, his Dec. 17 birthday. Again this year he expects to try—and complete—the same balancing tricks that had held crowds spellbound.

Headliners Other headliners by the Beatrician:

WOW-TV, KSID Radio Named Top Winners In Broadcasters Contest

Omaha (P)—Television station WOW-TV, Omaha, and radio station KSID, Sidney, were announced Sunday night as the top winners in Al-Sar-Ben's Broadcasters Community Service Awards Contest.

Both received plaques plus checks for $100 for a community project in their areas.

A. F. Jacobson, president of the board of governors of Al-Sar-Ben presented the awards at the Nebraska convention banquet.

WOW-TV was cited for its project "The Outsiders." KSID was cited for its project to create more awareness of the labors of the Nebraska Legislature in its community. The contest was divided into radio and television sections. In the TV division

KOLN-TV was given a certificate of merit. Certificates of merit in the radio division went to KFOR, Lincoln, and WOW, Omaha.

Nathan Gold, Lincoln businessman, was named the broadcasters' Nebraskan of the year at the banquet.

Gold, former president of Gold and Co. Department Store in Lincoln, now is chairman of the board.

He is the recipient of distinguished service awards from the University of Nebraska, Jewish Welfare Foundation, Lincoln Exchange Club and Kiwanis Club of Lincoln.

Gold presently is special economic counsel to the governor of Nebraska.

Gov. Frank B. Morrison addressed the banquet.

How You May Never Take a Laxative Again!

New Miracle Regulator Keeps Waste Soft—So Bowels Move Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—After 12 years' research, scientists have discovered a wonder-working substance that corrects constipation entirely without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon—becomes dry, hard, difficult to move. To give relief, laxatives have to force action by flushing, irritating or distending the intestine.

The new miracle substance—known medically as dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate—works in a completely different way. It is not a laxative! It simply makes natural moisture in the colon moisten and soften dry, hard waste more effectively. Then normal elimination follows naturally. Thus by working only on waste, not on you, the substance corrects constipation and restores regularity as no laxative can.

This new discovery has now been made available at drugstores under the name REGULOL. It is safe—not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try REGULOL—discover for yourself that you may never need to take a laxative again!

A Nutty Retirement

By WILLIAM

Fifty years is a long time in the life span of the average man but it comes and goes at an alarmingly fast rate. At 50 years of age, you can think back to high points in your life that seem to have happened only yesterday—the day you started a certain job, the day your first child was born, the day you were married, the day you graduated from high school, the first day in kindergarten.

When you think back to such times, you realize how fast the time has gone by. Maybe one of the things you might think about has to do with trees. Maybe as a lad, you hiked out on a brisk fall day to the outskirts of town and picked up a bushel basket full of walnuts. By the time you hulled them and then extracted the meat, you had perhaps only a quart or so of nuts but they were worth it. Maybe they went into home-made cookies or ice cream or a fruit salad at the evening meal. In whatever way they were used, they were a tempting addition to the menu. A few, perhaps, you ate as you cracked them open and there's no finer eating than that.

The walnut is a tough one to work with because its shell is so hard. A pecan or an English walnut is a cinch but the black walnut gives you a real challenge. The meat comes out of the black walnut in pieces while a good nut-cracker can often take the meat out of a pecan or English walnut all in one piece, two pieces at most.

In the days when nuts were bought more in the shell than out, the fellow who could produce the meat from nuts in two whole pieces was a real expert. This was always the goal, despite the fact that the nuts were often chopped up before they were used. Chopped nuts in candy were a favorite that added a glow to many a cool autumn evening.

If the black walnut grove you visited as a child was producing quite a few nuts, the trees found there were probably at least 10 years old. If nuts were really plentiful, the tree might have been 20 years old. At that age, it would be producing in good times about five bushels of nuts a year. On today's market, that would be about $10 or a little less in value. But the point is that somebody probably planted that tree. Sometimes the squirrels will plant the seed from which a great black walnut tree will grow but the better trees are planted by man with an idea of the future in mind. The squirrel, while to be greatly admired for his foresight, is more concerned with tomorrow's meal than things as they might be years hence.

The unfortunate thing today in Nebraska is that very few people bother to plant black walnut trees. One day, back in 1871, a now famous Nebraskan named J. Sterling Morton planted a black walnut on a high point at Arbor Lodge. That 94-year-old walnut now has a diameter of 38 inches and would produce some 673 board feet of first-rate lumber. That would be more than 40 black walnut planks, each one foot wide, 16 feet long and one inch thick. That would be a lot of walnut lumber but there aren't many trees like that in Nebraska. Probably, it isn't duplicated anywhere in the state.

The problem is that most people lack the patience to wait for a crop of black walnut trees. Under the best conditions, a black walnut will hit a diameter of about 16 inches in 40 years. But left alone a few more years and the tree will run to 22 inches in diameter which is much better for harvesting.

At the 22-inch diameter mark, the tree would be worth $70 for lumber, to say nothing of the nuts it has produced by then for many years. Extension Forester at the University of Nebraska Ellsworth H. Benson is trying to promote the planting of walnuts as a retirement fund for those who own small parcels of land that might be well suited for forestation.

It is true that 50 years is a long time to wait but the return really isn't bad. In an 18-acre tract, you could plant enough walnuts to give you a pension after about 50 years of some $140 a month, not including whatever inflation might take place between now and then. If you think you might not be around that long or might want to get rid of the 18 acres before 50 years, the trees once they are growing increase the value of the land. Even at 10 years of age, they have improved the value of the land where they stand. Eastern Nebraska with good soil and good rainfall is considered an ideal area for such trees.

While waiting for the tree to mature, you can sell the nuts that are produced or enjoy them yourself. Even the shell, not the hull, of walnuts is valuable as a fertilizer additive and as a cleaning agent for jet engines. And if you like a stately tree that gives lots of shade, the black walnut will stand up against any of them. Lumber and nuts could be the retirement program you have always dreamed about.

Norway's Election

Norway has momentarily upended its welfare government. For the first time since 1935 the bourgeois opposition has had the upper hand and the election ousted Europe's oldest democratic, social government.

This should not be taken to mean a disavowal of the welfare state or a triumph for our type of society. The great criticism, at least among the younger voters, was that the Labor government had been in charge so long that it was suffering from doctrinaire old age. There was no demand to end the welfare services, but there was a demand for less cost which many voters took to mean that the original authors of the social state had lost the faculty of economy.

In none of this can there be written in a national desire to do away with the welfare service or to adopt a different way of living.

Indeed, the anti-welfare groups did the best in the election, but none of them have a specific program of remedy and they do not agree with each other.

Similar currents of discontent are noticeable in Denmark and Sweden and the spirit of the Norwegian elections could infect all the Scandinavian countries, possibly even England. In that event something of a real change could come about, but there is very little leadership for that as yet. And until something more specific shows up it would be well to conclude that the Norwegian election is only an interim during which Norway will rest its hands briefly prior to lifting the load again to proceed in the direction it has now been going for 30 years.

No Time For Tragedy

Reports by Lloyd Jenkins, safety coordinator for the Lincoln public schools, that motorists are not respecting traffic laws in regard to school children are most disturbing. Despite a marked crosswalk, signs and lights, said Jenkins, motorists have been observed at two crossings failing to stop, even when children were waiting to cross. It is granted that it is early in the school year and motorists may not yet be attuned to the traffic of little children but such is no excuse. It is up to the driver to realize that the school year has started and the foot traffic it generates is more than usually dangerous.

This is particularly true at this time since the city has been in the process of installing new traffic lights at school crossings. The lights are operated by the pedestrian who pushes a button to turn the lights from green to red and, thereby, stop the traffic. This is a new system for Lincoln that ought to be carefully observed.

The youngster who pushes the button and darts into the street could present the oncoming motorists with a highly dangerous situation. A little wrong timing by the child and the driver and another fatality could be added to the traffic death list in the state.

At the same time, parents should give their youngsters some tips on crossing streets. Youngsters should be cautious but should not linger when crossing an intersection or at the curb line. This causes an needless delay in traffic and unnecessarily tests the patience of drivers. There never is a time for tragedy and the present is no exception.

Philadelphia Leaps Out

A story in the Christian Science Monitor tells of an exciting experience in Philadelphia. It is the story of a Negro minister who started with nothing an organization known as Opportunities Industrialization Center. In two years, OIC has trained thousands of Negroes in skills that have landed them good jobs and has become a focal point of pride in the community among all social and economic groups of all races.

The program is simple—it takes the uneducated and unemployed Negro and gives him or her the ability to find and hold a job. This means much more than the simple teaching of work skills. The program includes a transformation in the attitude and personality of the trainee. Negroes by the thousands have poured out of Philadelphia slums to avail themselves of the opportunities that exist at OIC.

The story tells of this advice given to students in a food service class: "Food service is not an inferior kind of work. On the contrary, it takes lots of special skills and talents." That is a significant statement from a number of points of view. Many more people than do ought to realize that there is no work that is inferior or demeaning.

The worker who knows this will be much more successful than the one who doesn't. Such realization breeds pride in one's work and that means doing a superior job. And if you think a custodian, a window washer, a waitress or any of many other jobs on the lower end of our economic scale are not or cannot be performed in highly different and productive ways, you simply are not a very observant person. The Philadelphia program may well be a model for the nation and a very large part of its success can be traced to its emphasis on attitude and pride in performance—the things from which personal satisfaction and success most often spring.

DREW PEARSON Africa Wonders About U.S. Policy

DAKAR — When Lyndon Johnson was a restless vice president of the United States and John F. Kennedy wanted to keep him busy, he sent Lyndon to Senegal for the inauguration of its first president, Leopold Sedar Senghor. While here, Lyndon visited the nearby fishing village of Kayar, met a Senegalese fisherman who was paddling a cumbersome, wooden canoe or pirogue. Returning to America, the then vice president sent the fisherman an outboard motor.

The gift did not make the headlines of the pickup truck given to the Pakistani camel driver, but probably it has been more productive. For a great many other Senegalese fishermen have now followed the example of President Johnson's friend and thus mechanized the fishing industry.

Lyndon Johnson is remembered pleasantly here. But his policy of massive military might in Viet Nam is undoing part of his earlier friendship. Furthermore it plays directly into the hands of the Chinese Communists in their campaign to penetrate this wealthy and relatively empty continent.

For the question continually asked by the Senegalese is: If President Johnson can send so many troops halfway around the world to Viet Nam, why can't he send troops to Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Louisiana, to protect the Negroes from being mobbed and murdered?

These states, it's pointed out, are much closer than Viet Nam and Negroes are American citizens. Why can't they be protected?

With some difficulty you can explain to the African intellectuals that states rights put the burden of police protection on the individual states and that only in rare cases are federal troops sent into a state. You explain that even in the District of Columbia the federal government does not intervene to protect the white population from the growing wave of Negro crime. But though you can make a slight dent on the professors and journalists, it's absolutely impossible to get your points across to great mass of Africans.

The Johnson administration otherwise is doing an excellent job through Ambassador Mercer Cook, former professor at Howard University, a Negro, and one of the most gifted envoys the State Department has sent to Africa. He was a fellow student with President Senghor when they were both youngsters in Paris, also went to school with other members of the Senegalese cabinet; has translated one of the President's books "On African Socialism" from French into English.

President Senghor has vigorously rejected socialism of the Peking variety, but written—along with five volumes of poetry—two philosophical essays on African socialism, which Ambassador Cook translated.

Profiles In Science

Robert Hooke (1635-1703), an English physicist and one of the most brilliant mechanical geniuses and experimenters of history, was born on the Isle of Wight. He became a protege of the great philosopher and chemist, Robert Boyle, whom he helped construct an air pump and other devices for experimentation.

Hooke lived rather an unsatisfactory life, being much neglected by the public. Some historians think he would have had a better life and wider recognition if he had not spoken and written about so many different things.

His investigations with light led him to propose a primitive kind of wave theory of light radiation. He worked a great deal with lenses and the diffraction of light.

He was the first to insist that the movements of heavenly bodies must be considered a problem of mechanics. This directly led him to the most sensational idea of all—his theory of universal gravitation.

The concept was none other than that gravitational forces of all heavenly bodies, inter-reacting constantly and everywhere and continuously, are what "make the world go around" and all the other worlds and planets and stars, as well.

Hooke invented a new kind of barometer and discussed at considerable length another very startlingly new idea—that barometric pressure readings would be a great help in forecasting the weather.

Hooke suggested systems of optical telegraphy—much like that learned by Boy Scouts—in which the reflected light of the sun is used for signaling great distances.

He watched with intense interest how small particles of fine flour, which he had dusted over a great bell, flew out from the bell into the air when the clapper struck against the sides of the bell. He thus might be said to have "seen" sound waves.

It was Hooke who built a wonderful microscope through which he was the first to observe the cellular structure of living things. In fact, Hooke was the first to use the word "cell" in describing the microscopic structure of cork, the bark of a kind of oak.

Hooke's genius really lay in his mechanical ability. He invented among other things: air pumps, diving bells, calculating machines, duplicating machines and wind and rain gauges.

He was secretary of the Royal Society and after the Great Fire of London in 1666 was put in charge of the rebuilding.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Homework A Vital Part Of Learning

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON Homework can be one of the most important segments of the learning process.

It is the student's chance to learn through reading. He can learn to organize his thoughts. He can prepare for listening the next day. And he can get practice in expressing himself.

Whether he attacks his work promptly or procrastinates; whether he is self-reliant or depends on others; whether he completes his work or leaves jobs half done; whether he holds to high standards or sluffs his work off; whether he persists for understanding and whether he maintains adequate progress or completes only minimum requirements—each is an attitude that becomes habitual and can persist to become a way of life.

Thus, homework is an opportunity for parents to take an active part in the training and education of their children. Not by doing the homework for them, but by helping and encouraging them to take the opportunity provided by this portion of the school tasks to train themselves for successful lives.

The student's attention should not be on training for skills which may quickly become outdated in this automated age. The attitudes and habits of responsibility, promptness, thoroughness and reliability which I am suggesting are general skills which will enable the student to move from job to job by advancement or through the force of changes in industry.

He should be encouraged to do the little extra beyond the written assignment that will foster independent study on his part as time goes on. For example, when he has finished the assigned work of translating a foreign language he is then ready to do some very important practice in rapid reading of the language.

At the end of each reading assignment, whatever the course, he should take time to summarize what he has learned—to think, where are we in this subject and what do we do next?

On days when there are not written assignments, he should study the course for a few minutes just for his own benefit to get a better grasp of the general pattern of things past and things to come.

When the written assignments are completed, he should allow time to sit quietly and think about his subjects. This will make the knowledge his own.

If the homework assigned already takes too long and there seems to be no time to do independent study, he should try to find the reason. He may be reading too slowly. He may lack facility in handwriting, or he may be attempting to carry the course at such a low level of mastery that adding new ideas is extremely difficult.

A burst of effort, a thorough review from the beginning, or new techniques of organization may be necessary to bring his scholarship up to the level where each day's homework can be done quicker. This will leave time for the added activities that will make all schoolwork easier in the months and years to come.

BOB CONSIDINE

Facing The Problem Of Retardation

NEW YORK — Sen. Robert Kennedy's shocking report on conditions at several of New York's institutions for mentally retarded children is a blow that makes us weep. His findings prompt wonder and dismay over how little man has advanced in dignity and the humanities since Bedlam, the Black Hole of Calcutta and, for that matter, Belsen.

But there are always other sides, gentler people. Gentler persons such as Del Crandall, who catches for the Pittsburgh Pirates. Del, a fine athlete and first-class intellectual, and his superb wife, produced five children. Two were retarded. One of these two died.

Del, speaking both as father of the child and a member of President Johnson's Council for Mental Retardation, taped a TV show recently and talked about the problem. It is Cliff Evan's "Ladies of the Press," and in this case featured Joan Hanauer of the N.Y. Journal-American; Joan Cook, N.Y. Times, and Geraldine Rhoads of McCall's.

"It is a difficult situation to accept," Del acknowledged. "We first found out about our oldest boy, Del Junior, at age three and a half. I know it seems like a kind of old age actually to find out about the problem, but he was our first child. We sensed he was slow, sure. But we always had the reassurances of other parents that they had known Johnny Doe, who didn't speak until he was four, and somebody else who didn't walk until he was nearly two.

"But finally we had to have the evaluation. The first reaction, of course, was grief and remorse. I think you are just about out of that when you can ask yourself, 'Well, now, what can we do for this child?' . . . Where do we go from here? But say it not in self-pity but with a desire to do something constructive that will affect this child's future."

Del's boy is now at St. Collette's School in Jefferson, Wis., where Sen. Kennedy's retarded sister labors. He is coming along fine. Del has embarked on a program of finding other well-known athletes who have retarded children. They'll devote a portion of each year to being with each child, performing their skills in some cases, coaching, talking to and, above all, making them know they are loved and wanted.

Reports by Lloyd Jenkins, safety coordinator for the Lincoln public schools, that motorists are not respecting traffic laws in regard to school children are most disturbing. Despite a marked crosswalk, signs and lights, said Jenkins, motorists have been observed at two crossings failing to stop, even when children were waiting to cross.

It is granted that it is early in the school year and motorists may not yet be attuned to the traffic of little children but such is no excuse. It is up to the driver to realize that the school year has started and the foot traffic it generates is more than usually dangerous.

This is particularly true at this time since the city has been in the process of installing new traffic lights at school crossings. The lights are operated by the pedestrian who pushes a button to turn the lights from green to red and, thereby, stop the traffic. This is a new system for Lincoln that ought to be carefully observed.

The youngster who pushes the button and darts into the street could present the oncoming motorists with a highly dangerous situation. A little wrong timing by the child and the driver and another fatality could be added to the traffic death list in the state.

At the same time, parents should give their youngsters some tips on crossing streets. Youngsters should be cautious but should not linger when crossing an intersection or at the curb line. This causes an needless delay in traffic and unnecessarily tests the patience of drivers. There never is a time for tragedy and the present is no exception.

Philadelphia Leaps Out

A story in the Christian Science Monitor tells of an exciting experience in Philadelphia. It is the story of a Negro minister who started with nothing an organization known as Opportunities Industrialization Center. In two years, OIC has trained thousands of Negroes in skills that have landed them good jobs and has become a focal point of pride in the community among all social and economic groups of all races.

Africa Wonders About U.S. Policy

DAKAR — When Lyndon Johnson was a restless vice president of the United States and John F. Kennedy wanted to keep him busy, he sent Lyndon to Senegal for the inauguration of its first president, Leopold Sedar Senghor. While here, Lyndon visited the nearby fishing village of Kavar, met a Senegalese fisherman who was paddling a cumbersome, wooden canoe or pirogue. Returning to America, the then vice president sent the fisherman an outboard motor.

The gift did not make the headlines of the pickup truck given to the Pakistani camel driver, but probably it has been more productive. For a great many other Senegalese fishermen have now followed the example of President Johnson's friend and thus mechanized the fishing industry.

Lyndon Johnson is remembered pleasantly here. But his policy of massing military might in Viet Nam is undoing part of his earlier friendship. Furthermore it plays directly into the hands of the Chinese Communists in their campaign to penetrate this wealthy and relatively empty continent.

For the question continually asked by the Senegalese is: If President Johnson can send so many troops halfway around the world to Viet Nam, why can't he send troops to Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Louisiana, to protect the Negroes from being mobbed and murdered?

These states, it's pointed out, are much closer than Viet Nam and Negroes are American citizens. Why can't they be protected?

With some difficulty you can explain to the African intellectuals that states rights put the burden of police protection on the individual states and that only in rare cases are federal troops sent into a state. You explain that even in the District of Columbia the federal government does not intervene to protect the white population from the growing wave of Negro crime. But though you can make a slight dent on the professors and journalists, it's absolutely impossible to get your points across to great mass of Africans.

The Johnson administration otherwise is doing an excellent job through Ambassador Mercer Cook, former professor at Howard University, a Negro, and one of the most gifted envoys the State Department has sent to Africa. He was a fellow student with President Senghor when they were both youngsters in Paris, also went to school with other members of the Senegalese cabinet; has translated one of the President's books "On African Socialism" from French into English.

President Senghor has vigorously rejected socialism of the Peking variety, but written—along with five volumes of poetry—two philosophical essays on African socialism, which Ambassador Cook translated.

Beauty Parlors Retone Tresses And Distresses

NEW YORK — Most men have the notion that women go to beauty parlors to get their hair done.

That is an extreme oversimplification. Getting one's hair squeaky clean, teased into a tangle and sprayed stiffer than rigor mortis is only an incidental phase of beauty-shopping. There are a larger psychological aspects.

"In the harried life of a modern woman, whether she's a housewife and mother or in a career, there is no more delightful recreation than a trip to the hairdresser," a hairdresser told us some time ago. "Eight out of 10 women don't really care that much about how great their hair looks when they're finished—they just want the psychological pleasure of being pampered, catered to, for a change.

Most of the ritziest beauty salons employ largely male hair-dressers—on the sound theory that, as long as a woman seeks pampering, she'd rather be pampered by a man.

★ ★ ★ Now still a new facet has been added to the beauty-pampering scene. At New York's swank St. Regis Hotel, the beauty salon owner has decided that women's moods and emotions can be—and should be—affected by her visit. If she is depressed when she enters the shop, she should be perked up. If she is jittery, she should be calmed. If she feels poor, she should be made to feel wealthy. If she feels unloved, she needs a dose of affection and warmth.

To accomplish this ambitious psychological goal, he has hired a color researcher named Valerie Schwartz to "do the decor"—planning individual booths that will offer the woman exactly what she needs.

Mrs. Schwartz, who claims that the psychology of color and its effect on human emotions goes back to ancient Egypt, says there will be a variety of moods offered to patrons (or should it be, patients?).

There will be orange booths—which inspire intellects. This for the high-class gossipers and readers of books over 500 pages.

Pink areas are equated with love and affection, and will be reserved for ladies who look like they need it.

Red booths are for ladies with tired blood. According to Mrs. Schwartz, red actually causes commotion and stimulates one's red blood cells.

Blue appeals to the spiritual nature, and will offer tranquility to those who need something bigger than a new hairdo.

Green booths represent money and health—and any woman can use them.

★ ★ ★ According to the owner, the color ideas will be supplemented by soft music, and each booth will be scented with a perfume that blends with the color mood. Each customer, as she enters, will be given a color chart so she can pick the mood she desires.

To my mind—I'm feeling very orange at the moment—this may be the most idiotic motivational ally-searched idea of the year. But perhaps I ought to try it. If I sit in the green booth and come out feeling healthy and wealthy in spite of the prices the St. Regis must charge, I'll know it works. Distributed, 1965, By King Feat. Synd.

ROBERT HOOKE

Profiles In Science

Robert Hooke (1635-1703), an English physicist and one of the most brilliant mechanical geniuses and experimenters of history, was born on the Isle of Wight. He became a protegee of the great philosopher and chemist, Robert Boyle, whom he helped construct an air pump and other devices for experimentation.

Hooke lived rather an unsatisfactory life, being much neglected by the public. Some historians think he would have had a better life and wider recognition if he had not spoken and written about so many different things.

★ ★ ★ His investigations with light led him to propose a primitive kind of wave theory of light radiation. He worked a great deal with lenses and the diffraction of light.

He was the first to insist that the movements of heavenly bodies must be considered a problem of mechanics. This directly led him to the most sensational idea of all—his theory of universal gravitation.

The concept was none other than that gravitational forces of all heavenly bodies, inter-reacting constantly and everywhere and continuously, are what "make the world go around" and all the other worlds and planets and stars, as well.

★ ★ ★ Hooke invented a new kind of barometer and discussed at considerable length another very startlingly new idea—that barometric pressure readings would be a great help in forecasting the weather.

Hooke suggested systems of optical telegraphy—much like that learned by Boy Scouts—in which the reflected light of the sun is used for signaling great distances.

He watched with intense interest how small particles of fine flour, which he had dusted over a great bell, flew out from the bell into the air when the clapper struck against the sides of the bell. He thus might be said to have "seen" sound waves.

★ ★ ★ It was Hooke who built a wonderful microscope

through which he was the first to observe the cellular structure of living things. In fact, Hooke was the first to use the word "cell" in describing the microscopic structure of cork, the bark of a kind of oak.

Hooke's genius really lay in his mechanical ability. He invented among other things: air pumps, diving bells, calculating machines, duplicating machines and wind and rain gauges.

He was secretary of the Royal Society and after the Great Fire of London in 1666 was put in charge of the rebuilding.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Homework A Vital Part Of Learning

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

Homework can be one of the most important segments of the learning process.

It is the student's chance to learn through reading. He can learn to organize his thoughts. He can prepare for listening the next day. And he can get practice in expressing himself.

Whether he attacks his work promptly or procrastinates; whether he is self-reliant or depends on others; whether he completes his work or leaves jobs half done; whether he holds to high standards or sluffs his work off; whether he persists for understanding and whether he maintains adequate progress or completes only minimum requirements—each is an attitude that becomes habitual and can persist to become a way of life.

Thus, homework is an opportunity for parents to take an active part in the training and education of their children. Not by doing the homework for them, but by helping and encouraging them to take the opportunity provided by this portion of the school tasks to train themselves for successful lives.

The student's attention should not be on training for skills which may quickly become outdated in this automated age. The attitudes and habits of responsibility, promptness, thoroughness and reliability which I am suggesting are general skills which will enable the student to move from job to job by advancement or through the force of changes in industry.

He should be encouraged to do the little extra beyond the written assignment that will foster independent study on his part as time goes on. For example, when he has finished the assigned work of translating a foreign language he is then ready to do some very important practice in rapid reading of the language.

At the end of each reading assignment, whatever the course, he should take time to summarize what he has learned—to think, where are we in this subject and what do we do next?

On days when there are not written assignments, he should study the course for a few minutes just for his own benefit to get a better grasp of the general pattern of things past and things to come.

When the written assignments are completed, he should allow time to sit quietly and think about his subjects. This will make the knowledge his own.

If the homework assigned already takes too long and there seems to be no time to do independent study, he should try to find the reason. He may be reading too slowly. He may lack facility in handwriting, or he may be attempting to carry the course at such a low level of mastery that adding new ideas is extremely difficult.

A burst of effort, a thorough review from the beginning, or new techniques of organization may be necessary to bring his scholarship up to the level where each day's homework can be done quicker. This will leave time for the added activities that will make all schoolwork easier in the months and years to come.

Facing The Problem Of Retardation

NEW YORK — Sen. Robert Kennedy's shocking report on conditions at several of New York's institutions for mentally retarded children is a blow that makes us weep. His findings prompt wonder and dismay over how little man has advanced in dignity and the humanities since Bedlam, the Black Hole of Calcutta and, for that matter, Belsen.

But there are always other sides, gentler people. Gentler persons such as Del Crandall, who catches for the Pittsburgh Pirates. Del, a fine athlete and first-class intellectual, and his superb wife, produced five children. Two were retarded. One of these two died.

Del, speaking both as father of the child and a member of President Johnson's Council for Mental Retardation, taped a TV show recently and talked about the problem. It is Cliff Evan's "Ladies of the Press," and in this case featured Joan Hanauer of the N.Y. Journal-American; Joan Cook, N.Y. Times, and Geraldine Rhoads of McCall's.

★ ★ ★ "It is a difficult situation to accept," Del acknowledged. "We first found out about our oldest boy, Del Junior, at age three and a half. I know it seems like a kind of old age actually to find out about the problem, but he was our first child. We sensed he was slow, sure. But we always had the reassurances of other parents that they had known Johnny Doe, who didn't speak until he was four, and somebody else who didn't walk until he was nearly two.

"But finally we had to have the evaluation. The first reaction, of course, was grief and remorse. I think you are just about out of that when you can ask yourself, 'Well, now, what can we do for this child? . . . Where do we go from here?' But say it not in self-pity but with a desire to do something constructive that will affect this child's future."

Del's boy is now at St. Collette's School in Jefferson, Wis., where Sen. Kennedy's retarded sister labors. He is coming along fine. Del has embarked on a program of finding other well-known athletes who have retarded children. They'll devote a portion of each year to being with each child, performing their skills in some cases, coaching, talking to and, above all, making them know they are loved and wanted.

High Teacher Pay Denied Public Purse

By LOUIS HARRIS

This fall has seen school systems across the nation beset with crises over teachers and money. Generally, the public is very high on the caliber of elementary and high school teachers, rating their quality favorably by better than 4 to 1. By the same token, more than 40% of the public says it believes teachers are underpaid and should be paid more. The bull's-eye question, however, is whether taxpayers are prepared to put up the extra funds to give teachers better pay.

When asked about the amount of money now allotted to public education, most Americans think the present share is adequate. This would imply that the teachers may have public sympathy and respect, but the public's purse is going to be kept quite separate from its sentiments.

But there are clear signs that in some circumstances local citizens might be persuaded to allocate more money to education. The evidence from a survey of a cross section of the nation indicates that for every person who thinks we are spending too much money on public school education, there are almost three who feel we are spending too little.

The question still in the balance is whether the majority who are high on teacher quality and who feel at the same time that present teacher pay and public school budgets are adequate will outweigh the minority who feel rather urgently that more money should be allocated to the school systems, specifically for teacher pay.

Residents of the big cities, where threats of teacher strikes have repeatedly cropped up, are particularly vehement about the need for finding new money for teachers salary increases. It is significant that big city people also tend to rate the quality of teaching there lower than those in the suburbs or smaller towns, thus heightening the crisis.

The nation's public school teachers are deeply respected—even more than the quality of education itself. 76% of the parents of school children rate the quality of public education in communities as excellent or good. They were then asked: "How would you rate the teachers in the public school system in this community — excellent, pretty good, only fair or poor?"

	Good-Excellent	Fair-Poor
Nation-wide rating of teachers	82%	18%
By size of place, teacher rating
Cities	76%	24%
Suburbs	81%	19%
Towns	86%	14%
Rural	81%	19%

However, the public rates teacher quality much higher than the monetary rewards that teachers receive. The cross section was asked: "Do you feel teachers in the public schools here are paid too little, too much or about the right amount?"

	Too Much	Too Little	About Right
Nation-wide	32%	48%	20%
By size of place
Cities	42%	51%	45%
Suburbs	22%	42%	52%
Towns	4%	35%	53%
Rural	2%	30%	68%

Easily the largest amount of public sympathy for higher teacher pay exists in the big cities where, indeed, the demands for higher salaries have been greatest.

The heart of the matter, of course, is how willing people are to put up added money for education and particularly for teacher salaries. The cross section was asked:

"Do you feel too much money is being spent on public schools in this community, too little money, or about the right amount of money?"

	Too Much	Too Little	Right Amt.
Nation-wide	15%	32%	53%
By size of place
Cities	9%	43%	48%
Suburbs	12%	27%	61%
Towns	17%	26%	57%
Rural	13%	26%	61%

The centers where a majority feels that teacher pay is too low—the big cities—also feel most strongly that not enough money is appropriated for public school education.

Although even here there is nearly a majority who say expenditures for education have reached a sufficient level, city people are much more willing than others to see school budgets go up. Beyond that is the fact that low-income, city residents are most discontented with the quality of instruction in the public schools in a society where opportunity is increasingly linked to education.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail
Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter in your column from "INTERESTED," who was upset because the daughter of a friend of hers posed for an artist in the nude. In the first place it's none of her business what someone else's daughter is doing, and if she was any kind of a "friend" she wouldn't be so anxious to get her friend's daughter arrested for indecent exposure. The human body has been the object of many great and beautiful works of art for many centuries. The only "indecent" thing about the situation she described is the cheap gossip circulated by people with little understanding of art and beauty. Tell "INTERESTED" that the only thing which has been exposed is her own ignorance. Sign this—

ART LOVER

DEAR ABBY: When a woman wrote to say that her friend's daughter was posing for an artist who specialized in pretty girls with very little, or nothing, on, you said the girl had a right to make a bare living. That's the trouble with this world. Everybody is making a big joke of modesty and decency. Why didn't you uphold virtue and strike a blow against nudity and obscenity, which are the same thing?

AGAINST OBSCENITY

DEAR AGAINST: Nudity and obscenity are not necessarily synonymous. The nude body, in the flesh or in an art form, when portrayed in the interest of artistic expression or realism, can hardly be called obscene. To believe otherwise would be to class Michelangelo's superb sculpture "David," which stands as naked as a radish in Florence, Italy, with girly shows and French postcards. One who does that is obscene with his eyes shut.

wedding on Sunday

The marriage of Miss Donna Fae Kulla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Eugene Kulla, to Richard Warren Durham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Durham, took place at a 4 o'clock ceremony on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 19, at St. Mark's Methodist Church. The Rev. Warren E. Swartz read the lines of the service, and Mrs. Robert Hendrix played the wedding music. George R. Bower was the vocal soloist. Mrs. David Doll of Omaha was her sister's bridesmatron, and Miss Carrie Kulla, also a sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. The attendants appeared in alike long-skirted frocks of topaz satin, and each carried a bouquet of white spider chrysanthemums.

Ronald Holdron served as best man, and seating the guests were Robert Ellsworth, Gerald Copely, David Krumm, Donald Karnopp and Delmer Durham, Jr.

The bride chose a gown of peau de soie in the ivory tone for her wedding. The long-sleeved bodice, patterned with re-embroidered lace and seed pearls, was designed in the Empire mode. The re-embroidered lace was repeated on the floor-length skirt which was given back interest with its Watteau train. A bandeau of seed pearls held in place her bouffant veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white spider chrysanthemums and white pom poms.

Mr. Durham and his bride will reside at 308 2nd St., in West Lincoln.

But in trying to solve the problem of how to deal with the situation, South came up with an answer that was neither fish nor fowl. He could have doubled two spades, or he could have jumped to three notrump, either of which would have been acceptable.

Instead, he bid two notrump, making five. Counting honors, South scored 360 points, but the United States team lost 340 points on the deal.

The bidding:
North East South West
Pass 2♠ Dble Pass
3♦ 3♠ Dble

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Most of the hands played in the annual world championship tournament could serve as models of how the game should be played; but, unfortunately, there are many other hands which arise to illustrate how the game should not be played.

Take this deal which occurred in the match between Sweden and the United States in 1953. The American East (who shall be nameless) opened the bidding with two spades after the Swedish North had passed. East-West were playing weak two-bids, the prime purpose of which is to make the bidding more difficult for the opponents.

South doubled for takeout and North responded three diamonds. At this point, East, having spoken his piece, should have passed, but he bid three spades instead. South doubled again, this time for business, and that became the contract.

East did not fare well. He lost two clubs, a diamond, two hearts and three spades to go down four—700 points.

As if this were not bad enough, the American North-South pair at the other table also had their troubles. There the bidding went in this peculiar manner:

North	East	South	West
1♥	2♠	2NT	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

North elected to open with a heart over which East jumped to two spades. It was not difficult for South to realize that his partner had bid a psychic — after all, there are only so many high cards in the deck.

But in trying to solve the problem of how to deal with the situation, South came up with an answer that was neither fish nor fowl. He could have doubled two spades, or he could have jumped to three notrump, either of which would have been acceptable.

BRIDES at afternoon ceremonies

Arrangements of white fuji chrysanthemums and greenery formed the background for the wedding of Miss Virginia Joyce Wadhams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil C. Wadhams, to John O. Skold, son of Mrs. Lillian Skold, which took place on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 19, at St. Paul Methodist Church.

Miss Greta L. Ericson of Rochester, Minn., as the maid of honor, and bridesmaids Miss Marelyn Rae Ashford of Denver, and Mrs. Roger G. Johnson of Omaha, wore alike floor-length frocks of Nile green organza.

James F. Eno served as best man, and acting the guests were Roger G. Johnson of Omaha; Ronald Lingle, Chris Wadhams, Jerry Linscott and Ken Neujahr.

The bride appeared in a gown of white organza and Chantilly lace. Chantilly lace, encrusted with seed pearls, fashioned the Empire bodice, designed with a deeply squared neckline, which slipped in to brief sleeves, their length replaced with long gloves. The lace was repeated to band the hem of the long, sheath skirt, and to ornament the open pillbox hat which held in place her tiered veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses.

After Oct. 1, Mr. Skold and his bride will reside at 2025 C St.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska School of Nursing, and has just completed two years of anesthesia training at the Mayor Clinic, Rochester, Minn. Mr. Skold currently is in the Master's program at the University of Nebraska of which he is a graduate. He is a member of Delta Sigma Pi fraternity.

IN suburban areas

In case the suburban set hasn't realized it yet, this is an inbetween season. Every morning brings a change in clothing—from dark cottons to wool suits, from light weight fall coats to the winter variety. This morning in Suburbia we are between a visit from a former resident and the latest dance step on Lakewood Drive.

EASTMONT

Former residents of Eastmont returned for a visit recently. They were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bogue and three of their four children, Peggy, Nancy, and Jeff. The Bogue family now is residing in Wichita, Kan. While in Lincoln for a two day visit, Mr. and Mrs. Bogue and their family were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Heidbrink of 346 Bruce Dr.

WEDGEWOOD MANOR

Friday evening, Lakewood Drive was swinging with the latest dance step. Terri Shephard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Shephard, entertained at a record party for many of her Millard Lefler school friends in Wedgewood.

Wedgewood has some snowbound news this morning from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Beach. Mr. Beach arrived home on Friday evening with a real fish story. When he was fishing in Savoy, S.D., he got his limit plus 12 inches of snow. To get back to civilization, Mr. Beach followed a snow-plow.

Headed for the Air Force game this coming weekend are a few Cornhusker fans from the Wedgewood area. They are Mr. and Mrs. Owen Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Woodruff, and Dr. Richard Wieland. Thursday evening is departure time.

In the birthday news this morning is Jane Clifton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Clifton, who celebrated with a party on Thursday. Invitations went to the three-year-old set.

COUNTRY CLUB TERRACE

Terry Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Price, has recently returned from a trip to Sacramento, Calif. He traveled by train with his grandmother, Mrs. Marvin Price, of Sioux City, Iowa. While on the coast, the two visited relatives in Sacramento and tried their luck at a gold mine in another part of the state.

Recent visitors to the Country Club Terrace area have been Dr. and Mrs. Richard Gasser and their children, Scott, Meri, Robin, and Robert of Wichita Falls, Tex. The Gasser family were three-day guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Price.

Celebrating the last day of vacation last Saturday afternoon was a group of the younger set in Country Club Terrace. The Price children, Terry, Marilyn-Rae and Shaun, entertained the neighborhood "gang" for this final fling. Their guest list included Tracy Pearce, Linda and Jeff Yant, Christy and Ricky Rice, Terri and John Mann, Scott, Tod, and Kirk Fridrich, and Kim Smith.

CHOSE early autumn weddings

The wedding of Miss Mary Jane Kunasek of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Kunasek of Bee, and Leander Rerucha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rerucha of Bellwood, took place Saturday morning, Sept. 18 at St. Wenceslaus Church in Bee. The 10 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. John Prachar.

Miss Martha Kunasek, as her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Delores Svoboda, Schuyler, and Miss Mary Ann Sedlak of Bee, wore long-skirted frocks of satin in the autumn green shade. They carried cascading bouquets of bronzed chrysanthemums.

Serving his brother as best man was Joe Rerucha, and seating the guests were Robert Kunasek and Eugene Masek.

The bride appeared in a gown of white Chantilly lace and bouquet taffeta. Seed pearls and iridescent sequins patterned the sabrina neckline of the lace basque, which was designed with long sleeves, and the full skirt of taffeta was completed by a detachable train of the lace and silk. Her tiered veil of illusion was held by a crown of illusion petals and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white chrysanthemums in a modern arrangement.

The couple will reside on a farm near Schuyler.

The altar of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Utica was appointed with white gladioli and blue tinted carnations for the wedding of Miss Berdena Naber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Naber of Waco, and Jack Woodward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Woodward of Lincoln, which took place Sunday, Sept. 19. The service was solemnized at 6 o'clock by the Rev. Walter Landgraf, and Mrs. William Stenke, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalist was Miss Arlin Gocke.

Wearing identical frocks in French blue and carrying blue-tinted chrysanthemums were Mrs. Pat Johnson, Lincoln, the matron of honor, and the maid of honor, Miss Kay Schultze of York.

Raymond Woodward, Lincoln, served as best man, and the ushers were Lloyd Naber and Clyde Naber, Waco, and Tom Woodward, Lincoln.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white lace over satin. Tiny pearls edged the portrait neckline of the long-sleeved bodice, and the wide skirt continued into a chapel train. Her silk illusion veil was held by a pearl coronet, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodward will make their home in Lincoln, at 1030 No. 48th.

Festive Season

It will be a festive season for members of Lincoln dancing clubs who are looking forward to formal dinner-dances, harvest balls and even an evening of square dancing.

The square dancers will be the members of the Allons-Y Club who will hold their autumn dance on Saturday evening, Oct. 2.

Party chairmen for the year, who also are making plans for the group's traditional New Year's Eve party and the spring party, to be held April 24, are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Holmquist, Mr. and Mrs. Don Erway and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pollard.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Olson are co-presidents of Allons Y, and other officers are Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gohde, vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Art Dobson, secretaries; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stuart, III, treasurers.

Members of the Gay Nighters Club will open their year the evening of Nov. 13, when they will dance at the Black Coach Inn. The party will be a welcome for new members of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Carter head the club officers assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Perry, vice presidents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Forke, secretaries; and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller, treasurers.

As far as the members of the Fifty-Niners Club are concerned, the official calendar is "official", and the club's new year begins after the Christmas holidays. Therefore, the club's last dance of 1965 will be held Saturday night, Oct. 9, when the members will gather at the Congress Inn.

Current co-presidents of the club are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lacy.

Saturday, Sept. 25, will mark the beginning of new year for the members of the Starlighters Dancing Club who will dine and dance that evening at the Holiday Inn.

The club will welcome as new members Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chisum, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Yakel and Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Whitney are presidents of the club this year and other officers are Dr. and Mrs. Willard Ress, vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Duane Olson, treasurers; and Woody Hull, secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pavelka, presidents of the Safari Dancing Club, have announced that the first of the club's five dances will be held Saturday evening, Oct. 2, in the ballroom of the Hotel Lincoln. A highlight of the evening will be the introduction of new club members.

Also officers of the club are Mr. and Mrs. Al Mulder, vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Mel Svoboda, secretaries; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Wright, treasurers. Board members are Mr. and Mrs. Buford Grosscup and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Gordon.

Miss Jean Esther Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Henderson, became the bride of Donald Raymond Saiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Saiser, at a candlelight service, Sunday afternoon, Sept. 19. The ceremony was solemnized at the First Methodist Church by Dr. Carl M. Davidson, and Mrs. Thomas C. Smith, organist, played the wedding music, which was composed by the bride. The vocal soloists were Mrs. Murray S. Spurgin and Miss Sandra Gerbeling.

The attendants, who wore frocks of silk organza over taffeta in the bittersweet tone, were Mrs. Carl W. Schlaphoff, as the matron of honor; Miss Susan Henderson, the bridesmaid; and the bridesmatron, Mrs. David H. Long, Omaha.

Serving as best man was Roger Way, and the corps of ushers included David H. Long, Omaha; Dwain R. Henderson, Robert Meyers, Carl W. Schlaphoff, William Book-er and Bruce Barnes.

The bride chose white silk brocade for her wedding gown. The fitted bodice was designed with a rounded collar, edged with pearls, and elbow sleeves, and the skirt was pleated into fullness and continued into a short train. Her silk illusion veil was held to the head by a pearl crown.

Mr. Saiser, a former student at the University of Nebraska, and his bride will live in Lincoln. A graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University, where she is a member of Delta Zeta sorority, Alpha Mu Gamma and Cardinal Key, Mrs. Saiser has attended Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y.

WEDGEWOOD MANOR

Friday evening, Lakewood Drive was swinging with the latest dance step. Terri Shephard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Shephard, entertained at a record party for many of her Millard Lefler school friends in Wedgewood.

Wedgewood has some snowbound news this morning from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Beach. Mr. Beach arrived home on Friday evening with a real fish story. When he was fishing in Savoy, S.D., he got his limit plus 12 inches of snow. To get back to civilization, Mr. Beach followed a snow-plov.

Headed for the Air Force game this coming weekend are a few Cornhusker fans from the Wedgewood area. They are Mr. and Mrs. Owen Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Woodruff, and Dr. Richard Wieland. Thursday evening is departure time.

In the birthday news this morning is Jane Clifton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Clifton, who celebrated with a party on Thursday. Invitations went to the three-year-old set.

COUNTRY CLUB TERRACE

Terry Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Price, has recently returned from a trip to Sacramento, Calif. He traveled by train with his grandmother, Mrs. Marvin Price, of Sioux City, Iowa. While on the coast, the two visited relatives in Sacramento and tried their luck at a gold mine in another part of the state.

Recent visitors to the Country Club Terrace area have been Dr. and Mrs. Richard Gasser and their children, Scott, Meri, Robin, and Robert of Wichita Falls, Tex. The Gasser family were three-day guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Price.

Celebrating the last day of vacation last Saturday afternoon was a group of the younger set in Country Club Terrace. The Price children, Terry, Marilyn-Rae, and Shaun, entertained the neighborhood "gang" for this final fling. Their guest list included Tracy Pearce, Linda and Jeff Yant, Christy and Ricky Rice, Terri and John Mann, Scott, Tod, and Kirk Fridrich, and Kim Smith.

early autumn weddings

The wedding of Miss Mary Jane Kunasek of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Kunasek of Bee, and Leander Rerucha, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rerucha of Bellwood, took place Saturday morning, Sept. 18 at St. Wenceslaus Church in Bee. The 10 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. John Prachar.

Miss Martha Kunasek, as her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Delores Svoboda, Schuyler, and Miss Mary Ann Sedlak of Bee, wore long-skirted frocks of satin in the autumn green shade. They carried cascading bouquets of bronzed chrysanthemums.

Serving his brother as best man was Joe Rerucha, and seating the guests were Robert Kunasek and Eugene Masek.

The bride appeared in a gown of white Chantilly lace and bouquet taffeta. Seed pearls and iridescent sequins patterned the sabrina neckline of the lace basque, which was designed with long sleeves, and the full skirt of taffeta was completed by a detachable train of the lace and silk. Her tiered veil of illusion was held by a crown of illusion petals and pearls. She carried white chrysanthemums in a modern arrangement.

The couple will reside on a farm near Schuyler.

The altar of St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Utica was appointed with white gladioli and blue-tinted carnations for the wedding of Miss Berdena Naber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Naber of Waco, and Jack Woodward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Woodward of Lincoln, which took place Sunday, Sept. 19. The service was solemnized at 6 o'clock by the Rev. Walter Landgraf, and Mrs. William Stienke, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalist was Mrs. Arlin Gocke.

Wearing identical frocks in French blue and carrying blue-tinged chrysanthemums were Mrs. Pat Johnson, Lincoln, the matron of honor, and the maid of honor, Miss Kay Schultze of York.

Raymond Woodward, Lincoln, served as best man, and the ushers were Lloyd Naber and Clyde Naber, Waco; and Tom Woodward, Lincoln.

The bride's gown was fashioned of white lace over satin. Tiny pearls edged the portrait neckline of the long-sleeved bodice, and the wide skirt continued into a chapel train. Her silk illusion veil was held by a pearl coronet, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodward will make their home in Lincoln, at 1030 No. 48th.

Festive Season

It will be a festive season for members of Lincoln dancing clubs who are looking forward to formal dinner-dances, harvest balls and even an evening of square dancing.

The square dancers will be the members of the Allons-Y Club who will hold their autumn dance on Saturday evening, Oct. 2.

Party chairmen for the year, who also are making plans for the group's traditional New Year's Eve party and the spring party, to be held April 24, are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Holmquist, Mr. and Mrs. Don Erway and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pollard.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Olson are co-presidents of Allons Y, and other officers are Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gohde, vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Art Dobson, secretaries; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stuart, III, treasurers.

Members of the Gay Nighters Club will open their year the evening of Nov. 13, when they will dance at the Black Coach Inn. The party will be a welcome for new members of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Carter head the club officers assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Perry, vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Forke, secretaries; and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller, treasurers.

As far as the members of the Fifty-Niners Club are concerned, the official calendar is "official", and the club's new year begins after the Christmas holidays. Therefore, the club's last dance of 1965 will be held Saturday night, Oct. 9, when the members will gather at the Congress Inn.

Current co-presidents of the club are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lacy.

Saturday, Sept. 25, will mark the beginning of new year for the members of the Starlighters Dancing Club who will dine and dance that evening at the Holiday Inn.

The club will welcome as new members Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chisum, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Yakel and Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Whitney are presidents of the club this year and other officers are Dr. and Mrs. Willard Ress, vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Duane Olson, treasurers; and Woody Hull, secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pavelka, presidents of the Safari Dancing Club, have announced that the first of the club's five dances will be held Saturday evening, Oct. 2, in the ballroom of the Hotel Lincoln. A highlight of the evening will be the introduction of new club members.

Also officers of the club are Mr. and Mrs. Al Mulder, vice presidents; Mr. and Mrs. Mel Svoboda, secretaries; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Wright, treasurers. Board members are Mr. and Mrs. Buford Grosscup and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Gordon.

7,000 Still Refugees From Betsy

New Orleans (AP)—Some 7,000 persons in refugee shelters were still waiting Sunday to return to their homes—or what Hurricane Betsy left of them as it smashed into Louisiana 10 days ago, pushing rivers and lakes into lowlands.

Many of those returning needed clearance from health authorities. Disease from animal carcasses loomed as a menace in some areas. Parts of Plaquemines Parish south of New Orleans were still inaccessible due to flood waters. Pumps were busy emptying high waters in other areas.

Health authorities in New Orleans have given typhoid, tetanus and diphtheria shots to some 50,000 persons.

The number of refugees in about a dozen shelters in Orleans, Plaquemines and St. Bernard Parishes dropped sharply as the water receded. There were 14,000 in the shelters two days ago.

Guard Thinning Out

State officials continued releasing national Guardsmen from hurricane disaster duty. About 380 were sent home Sunday. Close to 400 were deactivated earlier from the 2,700 originally called up to help with evacuations and rescues and to prevent looting.

The known hurricane death toll in Louisiana climbed to 76 with the recovery of four more drowned bodies Saturday.

The bodies of a young girl and an elderly man were found in their New Orleans homes as floodwaters dropped.

The bodies of two men were pulled from a sunken barge in Plaquemines Parish. It sank Sept. 9, when the hurricane hit. They were identified as Jessie Byrum, 29, of Edenton, N.C., and Garland Hilboun, 59, of Memphis, Tenn.

Meanwhile, volunteers for "Operation Help" were back in action Sunday helping residents of flood-stricken areas in eastern New Orleans and neighboring St. Bernard Parish clean out their homes, some of which were under 12 feet of water.

More than 300 of the volunteers, armed with mops, brooms, buckets and scrub rags, spread through the soggy communities Saturday pulling mud, trash and ruined furnishings out of the homes.

POSTCARD

A sunny day in suburban Shady Acres. I put out a little bait over the weekend and I caught a few casualties on the garden. The mail is heavy. The mail comes early on Monday mornings in our rural free delivery area. Other days it comes in the afternoon. On Monday, we can see the red, white and blue truck across the autumn-yellow hills by the middle of the morning.

There is little mail, maybe that's why. Letter writers don't get revved up over the weekend. By midweek they are in high gear. Friday's mailman stuffs the box.

Mail is a curious thing—some newspapers count mail as a measure of popularity. "I read your article and you are absolutely wrong . . ."

The interesting thing about Indignant Subscriber is that he's such a letter writer. Happy Subscriber doesn't seem to own pen or paper.

All writers become aware of this. And some clever fellows build up the poundage of their mail by clever insertion of misquotes.

***
"To gild of lily . . ." This is good for a deluge of mail. A bonanza in the box.

It seems Shakespeare didn't say this—no matter how often you've heard it.

He said: "To paint the lily." "To gild refined gold, to paint the lily," is the way it goes.

And you have no idea how many Indignant Subscribers are eager to scoff at your ignorance.

A lily-gilder can build himself a handsome mail call.

***
The cat lovers are the liveliest single group when it comes to posting letters.

There is nothing you can say about cats that does not drive them crazy.

I mention my Siamese cat—the mailman can't get it all in the box.

"You are teaching your children and morons to be cruel to animals!" That is a sample reaction to a simple mention of cats and kids.

When a Siamese mother cat had kittens, I was clawed fore and aft by cat lovers. Owners of cats.

It seems cats should be "fixed" (very descriptive that) so they don't have kittens. Many cat lovers feel the Creator bungled the job and they are in a swivet to get all cats in neutral.

How cat people are to have cats if cats have no kittens is curious, too.

The mail is astounding. And all writers are grateful for cat people

LBJ Load May Force Revolt

... SEN. ELLENDER WANTS ADJOURNMENT SOON

Washington (AP)—Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said Sunday President Johnson may run into a congressional revolt if he keeps pushing for more legislation.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said if the administration brings up its attempt to repeal section 14B of the Taft-Hartley labor act, Congress wouldn't get home for a long time.

With adjournment seeming as elusive as ever, Ellender said, "I believe that some of us are going to get mad and just walk out so that you can't get a quorum."

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader said he has the troops for prolonged "extended discussion" against 14B's repeal. This section of the act allows states to ban union shop agreements.

Extended Discussion

"I don't like to use the word filibuster," Dirksen said on CBS' radio-television program "Face The Nation."

"But if 14B is dished out, I can assure you there is going to be extended discussion. Asked if he has any knowledge the administration will not push for action on 14B, Ellender, in an interview this session, the Illinois senator said "no."

Johnson has asked Congress to repeal the labor act section this session.

Senate leaders ticketed for passage this week two major administration bills they had hoped to pass last week. One is the measure to abolish immigration quotas based on nationality. The other is a $3.2-billion foreign aid appropriation bill.

Projects Action Due

In the House, action is scheduled on a $2-billion authorization for construction of 144 river, harbor and flood control projects and on a batch of lesser bills.

Compromise agreements also may send to the White House a number of other measures, like the $46.8-billion defense appropriation bill, that were passed by each branch in different forms.

Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., who used to talk about adjournment around Labor Day, now says only that the present session will end sometime after the first of October.

transcribed for Radio Press International, said he is sure that President Johnson is "not wholeheartedly" for the repeal measure and expressed hope it will not be brought up.

Something Left

He went on to say that 90% of Johnson's program has been enacted and something ought to be left for Congress to do in the next session rather than hold the members here until December.

"If he continues to send us a lot of legislation that is controversial and that would have the effect of keeping us here to Christmas, some of us I'm sure will revolt," Ellender said.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., interviewed on a radio-television program for New York stations, said he expects that after about a week's debate on the repeal bill an attempt will be made to invoke the Senate's anti-filibuster rule.

If the necessary two-thirds majority is not obtained, he said, the administration probably will give up on the bill for this session.

Other Changes

Javits supports repeal but contends it should be coupled with other changes in the Taft-Hartley act. Although Ellender is opposed to the bill, he said he doesn't plan to join in a filibuster by a bipartisan group of senators organized by Dirksen.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., an advocate of repeal, predicted in an interview recorded for KYW-TV, Philadelphia, that the bill will pass without the adjournment of Congress being delayed appreciably.

Senate action on the immigration and foreign aid appropriation bills was delayed when virtually all of last week was taken up with passage of two major measures on the President's program—the omnibus farm bill and the highway beautification bill.

Hair Looks Young Again

without changing your natural shade

"Just a Dab a Day, Keeps the Gray Away"

Before—and Two weeks later, after using Herbold's Pomade

If the years have stolen the natural color and oils from your hair, leaving it gray, streaked, dry, lifeless, faded, or yellowish; making you look older than you really are; simply use Herbold's Pomade as your hair dressing. It will blend in lasting color just right for your hair, but will not change its shade; only brighten it.

As grayness gradually disappears, your hair becomes lustrous and young looking again. This amazing improvement is so real, so subtle and gradual, no one can tell you are using anything but a fine hair dressing.

Not a coal tar dye or tint—no patch tests—no confusing shades—but a special rich hair cream, that keeps the gray away by replacing lost color and oils, so vital to young, healthy looking, well-groomed hair. For Men and Women—$1.25, $2 and $3. At Drug and Cosmetic Counters.

If there is no difference in gasolines...

Why are Keotane sales increasing at a rate 3 times faster than all other gasolines combined?

Even if things aren't as busy as this at the Skelly Station nearest you, we hope you get the message: Car owners have recently been switching to Skelly Keotane Gasoline faster than to all other gasolines combined.

In fact, in 1964—and so far in 1965—sales of Skelly Keotane Gasoline increased at a rate 3 times faster than the gasoline industry as a whole.

Why are so many car owners making the Big Switch to Keotane? We think it's because people who have tried Keotane, and compared it with other gasolines, can tell a difference.

Will it pay you to switch to Skelly Keotane Gasoline? Can you, too, get more power . . . or more mileage . . . or both? There's only one way to find out. Try 3 tankfuls of Skelly Keotane Gasoline in your car, in your kind of driving. Since Skelly Keotane costs no more than other major brand premium gasolines without Keotane, you can't lose. And if you do get more mileage . . . or more power . . . or smoother performance . . . you can be miles and money ahead.

Drive in at your nearest Skelly station soon and make the Big Switch to Keotane.

If there is no difference in gasolines...

still
Why are Keotane sales increasing at a rate 3 times faster than all other gasolines combined?

Even if things aren't as busy as this at the Skelly Station nearest you, we hope you get the message: Car owners have recently been switching to Skelly Keotane Gasoline faster than to all other gasolines combined.

In fact, in 1964—and so far in 1965—sales of Skelly Keotane Gasoline increased at a rate 3 times faster than the gasoline industry as a whole.

Why are so many car owners making the Big Switch to Keotane? We think it's because people who have tried Keotane, and compared it with other gasolines, can tell a difference.

Will it pay you to switch to Skelly Keotane Gasoline? Can you, too, get more power . . . or more mileage . . . or both? There's only one way to find out. Try 3 tankfuls of Skelly Keotane Gasoline in your car, in your kind of driving. Since Skelly Keotane costs no more than other major brand premium gasolines without Keotane, you can't lose. # Oswaldiana Collection To Be Sold

New York (AP)—A scant collection of letters and other memorabilia left by presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald will be auctioned to the highest bidder next week.

"This is the first and probably the last sale of Oswald's letters," says autograph dealer Charles Hamilton, who is selling the collection for Oswald's mother, Mrs. Marguerite Oswald of Fort Worth, Tex.

Hamilton estimates the collection's value at $5,120.

The items include —A letter to his mother from Russia in which Oswald writes about his undesirable discharge from the U.S. Marine Corps, an event which embittered him toward his native land. ($1,000)

College Application —His application for admission to Albert Schweitzer College in Switzerland, in which he says he wants "to be a short story writer on contemporary American life." ($700)

—His baptismal certificate, signed by a Lutheran pastor, Michael R. Lecoon of New Orleans, on which Oswald altered his date of birth so he could join the Marines at 16. ($200)

—Two letters from Mrs. Oswald to her son at the Hotel Metropole in Moscow. They were returned with the notation that he had left. Mrs. Oswald says they never have been opened and she doesn't remember what she wrote in them. Hamilton calls them "mystery letters." ($200)

Monogrammed Napkins In addition to 23 items of written material by or about Oswald, the collection contains seven gifts Oswald sent his mother from the Soviet Union, including four linen table napkins with the monogram "M.O." embroidered by Oswald's Russian-born wife, Marina. ($250 for the seven.)

If history is any indication, Oswald's letters could bring more money than those of John F. Kennedy, the president he shot.

The letters of assassins John Wilkes Booth, Charles Guiteau and Leon Czolgosz have brought higher prices on the autograph market than those of their victims. Presidents Abraham Lincoln, James A. Garfield and William McKinley.

The auction is Sept. 30 at New York's Hotel Gotham. Hamilton gets 20% commission on the sale and the rest goes to Oswald's mother.

Former Senator Thomas Is Dead

Lawton, Okla. (AP)—Former U.S. Sen. Elmer Thomas, 89, died Sunday in a Lawton hospital.

Thomas, who retired from political life in 1950 after more than 40 years as a state and national lawmaker underwent surgery Sept. 7, the day before his 89th birthday. Physicians said he appeared to be improving and then went into a sudden decline leading to his death.

Thomas, a life-long Democrat, had been in the Senate for 24 years when he lost to U.S. Sen. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., in the 1950 primary.

During his tenure as a lawmaker, Thomas was recognized as an authority on financial affairs, Indian legislation and farm and oil matters.

Colts' Rally Tops Vikings

... DEFENSE AIDS WIN

By United Press International
Johnny Unitas rallied the Baltimore Colts from an early 10-point deficit with a spectacular aerial show Sunday to lead the defending Western Division champions to a 35-16 victory over the Minnesota Vikings in a National Football League opener.

A capacity crowd of 56,562 in Memorial Stadium saw the Vikings zoom off to a 10-0 lead in the first period in an effort to duplicate their upset victory over the Colts in their 1964 opening game. The Vikings started the 1965 season rated as one of the Colts' most serious challengers in the Western Division race.

With Unitas showing all his brilliant skills under pressure, the Colts rallied to a 14-10 halftime lead and then broke open the game with 21 points in the second half.

Unitas passed nine yards to Jimmy Orr and then hit John Mackey for a 31-yard play to give the Colts their second-period touchdown. The other Colt scores came on a one-yard plunge by Lennie Moore, an eight-yard run by Jerry Hill, and a 38-yard interception by safety-man Jerry Logan.

Moore's touchdown extended his N.F.L. record to at least one six-pointer in his last 18 games.

The shirt-sleeved crowd saw the Colts contain Fran Tarkenton to only one touchdown pass. The remainder of the Viking scoring came on field goals of 35, 37 and 39 yards by Fred Cox.

The N.F.L. champion Cleveland Browns opened their season with a 17-7 victory over the Washington Redskins. Frank Ryan threw touchdown passes of 80 and 35 yards to lead the Browns' attack. Jimmy Brown was held to 65 yards rushing but Ernie Green ground out 89 for the Browns.

Bart Starr threw two touchdown passes as the Green Bay Packers rolled for 34 points in the second half and walloped the Pittsburgh Steelers, 41-9. Mike Clark accounted for all the Steeler points with field goals of 21, 32 and 32 yards. Two interceptions by Herb Adderley and one by Ray Nitschke led to Packer touchdowns.

The Detroit Lions downed the Los Angeles Rams, 20-0, with the aid of two touchdown passes by Milt Plum in the fourth period. Wayne Walker added the other Detroit points with two field goals, one a 45-yarder. Plum's touchdown passes went to Terry for 34 yards and Joe Don Looney for 47.

Fullback Perry Lee Dunn plunged for two touchdowns, and flanker Bob Hayes collaborated in a 45-yard touchdown pass play with Don Meredith as the Dallas Cowboys routed the New York Giants 31-2. The powerful Dallas defense didn't allow New York a first down until the second half and held the Giants to minus four yards rushing all day.

John Brodie threw touchdown passes of 59 and nine yards to Bernie Casey, 20 yards to Ken Willard and 21 yards to Dave Parks to pace the San Francisco Forty-Niners.

Pennant Near For Minnesota

... CHISOX WIN

By United Press International
The Minnesota Twins reduced their magic number to three Sunday by defeating Washington 8-1 behind Jim Perry's well-scattered nine-inning.

Any combination of three Minnesota victories and Chicago defeats will give the Twins the championship.

Perry had a shutout for seven innings en route to his 11th win. The only Washington run came in the eighth when Don Blasingame and Jim King singled and Frank Howard hit into a run-producing double play.

The Twins attacked starter

Minnesota added two more in the eighth when Zoilo Versalles singled with the bases full.

The White Sox kept their flustering pennant hopes alive when they downed the Cleveland Indians 7-5. Tommy Agee's three-run double was the big blow of a four-run fourth-inning rally that paved the way for Juan Pizarro to win his sixth game. Don Buford had four hits for the White Sox.

Rich Beck scattered nine hits to beat the Detroit Tigers 3-0 and win his second game for the New York Yankees. Roger Repoz doubled home one run and Ray Barker doubled home two others for the Yankees. Dave Wickersham suffered his 14th loss.

Jim Gosger's inside-the-park home run and Felix Mantilla's two-run single carried Bill Monbouquette and the Boston Red Sox to a 3-2 win over the Kansas City Athletics. Monbouquette pitched an eight-inning shutout to win his ninth game.

Baltimore's doubleheader in Los Angeles was postponed because of wet grounds.

Giants Win While Milwaukee Argues

... BUNT SCORES WINNING RUN

By United Press International
Hal Lanier scored from first base with the winning run when Joe Torre angrily threw the ball to the ground while protesting a call, giving the streaking San Francisco Giants a 4-2 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Sunday.

Lanier led off the Giants' eighth with a single. Pinch batter Jim Davenport bunted down the first base line and Torre let the ball roll. When first base umpire Bill Williams called it fair, Torre slammed the ball to the turf and it bounced away. Lanier scored and Torre was ejected from the game for arguing.

Davenport was credited with a single and Torre charged with an error.

The Giants added an insurance run in the same inning on a single, a walk and a sacrifice fly by Willie McCovey. It was the National League leaders' 16th win in their last 17 games.

Juan Marichal, San Francisco's 22-game winner, pitched the last two innings to preserve the victory for Bill Henry. Willie Mays' 49th home run in the first inning and a homer by Jim Hart in the second gave the Giants a 2-0 lead.

Claude Osteen and Ron Perranoski collaborated in a seven-hitter to pitch the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The win enabled the second-place Dodgers to remain 3 1/2 games behind the Giants. Jim Lefebvre and Wes Parker hit homers to lead the Dodgers' eight-hit attack.

The Cincinnati Reds fell 4 1/2 games behind the Giants when they split a doubleheader with the Houston Astros.

—NINE UNBEATEN TEAMS RATED—

Rockets Ranked No. 1 In First Grid Ratings

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln Northeast heads a top ten that includes nine unbeaten clubs and defending champion Creighton Prep (1-1) in the initial Nebraska Prep Ratings for 1965.

The Rockets, who have won 35 of their last 38 football tests, are off to another quick start with impressive wins over Fremont (19-0) and Lincoln Southeast (26-0).

But Art Bauer's club is receiving a strong challenge from several fronts in the 1965 Class A race.

Hard on the heels of the Rockets are Omaha Benson and Lincoln Pius X, who have rolled for 88 and 90 points respectively in their openers.

Omaha Tech and Bellevue, which pulled the first big surprise of the season when it upset Creighton Prep, round out the first division.

Westside, Boys Town, Norfolk, Kearney and Creighton Prep complete the top ten.

Fremont helped put Northeast into the No. 1 position when it rebounded from its opening game loss to polish off Grand Island, 27-0.

The Rockets stopped Fremont cold in the opener and opened up their attack a little more in disposing of Southeast in convincing fashion.

Benson, the only club to whip Northeast last year, breezed past Council Bluffs Abraham Lincoln, 40-6, in its opener and then stormed past Omaha South, 48-0.

Pius X is off to its finest football start with last week's 44-0 rout of Bishop Ryan serving notice that the Thunderbolts will make a strong bid.

They won't lack for opportunities against tough opposition as they tangle with Boys Town this week and get Northeast, Creighton Prep and Southeast later in the campaign.

Bellevue, storming back from a 1-8 campaign in 1964, looks ready to make a serious bid for top ten honors after handling Bishop Ryan and Creighton Prep.

Breaking up the Omaha-Lincoln domination of the top ten are Norfolk and Kearney.

Norfolk opened with a 20-7 win over Yankton, S.D., and then romped past Fairbury, 33-0. Hank Hart's veteran club gets its first big test this week when it entertains Fremont.

Kearney has scrambled to a pair of one-touchdown wins for new coach Claire Boroff. The Bearcats edged Grand Island in their opener and followed with a triumph over North Platte. Kearney meets Columbus and Holdrege in the next two weeks before tangling with Norfolk in what could be a preview of the Big Ten playoff.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

By Don Forsythe
Class A

- 1—Northeast (2-0)
- 2—O. Benson (2-0)
- 3—Pius X (2-0)
- 4—O. Tech (2-0)
- 5—Bellevue (2-0)

Comment — Most of the leaders haven't had a real test yet. This week's Pius X-Boys Town and Westside-Prep battles could produce a big shakeup in a top ten that appears to be closely matched at present.

- 6—O. Westside (2-0)
- 7—Boys Town (2-0)
- 8—Norfolk (2-0)
- 9—Kearney (2-0)

Nicklaus Captures Portland Golf Title

Portland, Ore. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus became golf's biggest money winner of all time with his fourth straight sub-par round Sunday to win the $50,000 Portland Open Tournament.

The $6,600 Nicklaus won boosted his season total to $134,045, breaking the record of $128,230 by Arnold Palmer in 1963.

Nicklaus was 15 strokes under par with rounds of 69-68-68-273 on the par 35-37-72 Portland Golf Club course.

Dave Marr the PGA champion, was runner-up, three strokes behind Nicklaus. Marr started the day two behind Nicklaus and pulled even at one point but could not match Nicklaus down the closing stretch.

Billy Maxwell captured third place, five strokes behind Nicklaus. Bob Verwey of South Africa was fourth, a stroke behind Maxwell. Billy Casper was fifth, a stroke behind Verwey.

In clipping four more strokes off par Sunday, Nicklaus won his fifth tournament of the season, equalling 1963 which was his best previous year.

It was the third time Nicklaus had won the Portland Open, and it was the second time this year he successfully defended a championship. The other successful defense was in the Philadelphia Open.

Nicklaus, who said he might be playing even better than when he won the Masters tournament this year, had five birdies Sunday and slipped over par on only one hole.

In fact, he slipped over par on only three holes in the four rounds, each time by three putting.

He did not miss the green in his final round and had only one drive stray from a fairway. As it turned out, that of America game was postponed Sunday to save drenched Seacrest Field.

The game will be replayed either Nov. 6 or 7 in Lincoln. The Comets could have played but elected not to take a chance on damaging the field for next week's high school play.

Grand Rapids was all set to board its plane Saturday night when Comet president Robert Van Dervoort called the team at the airport and told them to wait until a decision could be made.

The Comets will play at Rock Island Saturday night.

Colts' Rally Tops Vikings

... DEFENSE AIDS WIN

By United Press International
Johnny Unitas rallied the Baltimore Colts from an early 10-point deficit with a spectacular aerial show Sunday to lead the defending Western Division champions to a 35-16 victory over the Minnesota Vikings in a National Football League opener.

A capacity crowd of 56,363 in Memorial Stadium saw the Vikings zoom off to a 10-0 lead in the first period in an effort to duplicate their upset victory over the Colts in their 1964 opening game. The Vikings started the 1965 season rated as one of the Colts' most serious challengers in the Western Division race.

With Unitas showing all his brilliant skills under pressure, the Colts rallied to a 14-10 halftime lead and then broke open the game with 21 points in the second half.

Unitas passed nine yards to Jimmy Orr and then hit John Mackey for a 31-yard play to give the Colts their second-period touchdowns. The other Colt scores came on a one-yard plunge by Lennie Moore, an eight-yard run by Jerry Hill, and a 38-yard interception by safety-man Jerry Logan.

Moore's touchdown extended his N.F.L. record to at least one six-pointer in his last 18 games.

The shirt-sleeved crowd saw the Colts steal Fran Tarkenton to only one touchdown pass. The remainder of the Viking scoring came on field goals of 35, 37 and 39 yards by Fred Cox.

The N.F.L. champion Cleveland Browns opened their season with a 17-7 victory over the Washington Redskins. Frank Ryan threw touchdown passes of 80 and 35 yards to lead the Browns' attack. Jimmy Brown was held to 65 yards rushing but Ernie Green ground out 89 for the Browns.

Bart Starr threw two touchdown passes as the Green Bay Packers rolled for 34 points in the second half and walloped the Pittsburgh Steelers, 41-9. Mike Clark accounted for all the Steeler points with field goals of 21, 36 and 32 yards. Two interceptions by Herb Adderley and one by Ray Nitschke led to Packer touchdowns.

The Detroit Lions downed the Los Angeles Rams, 20-0, with the aid of two touchdown passes by Milt Plum in the fourth period. Wayne Walker added the other Detroit points with two field goals, one a 45-yarder. Plum's touchdown passes went to Terry for 34 yards and Joe Don Looney for 47.

Fullback Perry Lee Dunn plunged for two touchdowns and flanker Bob Hayes collaborated in a 45-yard touchdown pass play with Don Meredith as the Dallas Cowboys routed the New York Giants 31-2. The powerful Dallas defense didn't allow New York a first down until the second half and held the Giants to minus four yards rushing all day.

John Brodie threw touchdown passes of 59 and nine yards to Bernie Casey, 20 yards to Ken Willard and 21 yards to Dave Parks to pace the San Francisco Forty-Niners.

Lincoln Northeast heads a top ten that includes nine unbeaten clubs and defending champion Creighton Prep (1-1) in the initial Nebraska Prep Ratings for 1965.

The Rockets, who have won 35 of their last 38 football tests, are off to another quick start with impressive wins over Fremont (19-0) and Lincoln Southeast (28-0).

But Art Bauer's club is receiving a strong challenge from several fronts in the 1965 Class A race.

—McDOLE KEY FACTOR— Bills Quiet Cookie In 30-15 Triumph

By United Press International
The Buffalo Bills quieted old teammate Cookie Gilchrist and a ballyhooed Denver running game, intercepted five passes and rode the long-range passing of Jack Kemp Sunday to spoil the Broncos' home opener 30-15.

Kemp passed for one touchdown and scored another on a one-yard keeper. He passes accounted for 275 yards through a leaky Denver secondary.

Buffalo's big front four of Roland McDole, Tom Sestak, Jim Dunaway and Tom Day—who average 272 pounds—throttled Gilchrist and Abner Haynes, who the Broncos obtained in winter trades to spruce up their rushing game.

Buffalo's Charley Warner intercepted three passes by Denver quarterback Mickey Slaughter, and McDole and Hagood Clarke each picked off one.

Pete Gogolak kicked three field goals for Buffalo—one from 29 yards out and two from 18.

A crowd of 39,682—the second largest in Denver history—watched Denver's home opener.

SF Giants Put Series Tickets On Sale Today

San Francisco (AP)—The San Francisco Giants announced they will start selling World Series reserve seat tickets Monday by mail only.

If the Giants should capture the National League pennant, the third, fourth and fifth World Series games would be played at Candlestick Park Oct. 9 through Oct. 11.

Missed Many Games

Outfielder-first baseman Orlando Cepeda missed more than three months of the 1965 season because of a bad knee. The San Francisco Giants put him on the disabled list May 7 and reactivated him Aug. 18.

Rockets are Omaha Benson and Lincoln Plus X, who have rolled for 88 and 90 points respectively in their openers.

Omaha Tech and Bellevue, which pulled the first big surprise of the season when it upset Creighton Prep, round out the first division.

Westside, Boys Town, Norfolk, Kearney and Creighton Prep complete the top ten.

Fremont helped put Northeast into the No. 1 position when it rebounded from its opening game loss to polish off Grand Island, 27-0.

The Rockets stopped Fremont cold in the opener and

It was the Broncos second straight AFL loss. The Bills won their second game in two tries.

The San Diego Chargers struck for a touchdown in the first time they got their hands on the ball and then stopped the Oakland Raiders for a 17-6 victory before a record Frank Youell Field crowd of 24,016.

The Chargers marched 81 yards with the opening kickoff in 10 plays with Paul Lowe crashing over right tackle from the five-yard line. The other San Diego touchdown came in the fourth quarter on a 30-yard pass from John Hadl to Lance Alworth. Gene Mingo kicked field goals of 48 and 35 yards for the only Oakland tallies.

Veteran George Blanda passed the Houston Oilers to a 31-10 victory over Boston and increased his career total passing yardage to 15,167. Blanda clicked on 60 and 19-yard scoring tosses to Charlie Frazier and a 46-yard bomb to Willie Frazier.

The victory was the ninth straight for the Oilers and the second in a row this season without a loss. Boston is 0-2.

Kansas City defeated New York 14-10 in the lone Saturday night contest.

Giants Win While Milwaukee Argues

... BUNT SCORES WINNING RUN

By United Press International
Hal Lanier scored from first base with the winning run when Joe Torre angrily threw the ball to the ground while protesting a call, giving the streaking San Francisco Giants a 4-2 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Sunday.

Lanier led off the Giants' eighth with a single. Pinch batter Jim Davenport bunted down the first base line and Torre let the ball roll. When first base umpire Bill Williams called it fair, Torre slammed the ball to the turf and it bounced away. Lanier scored and Torre was ejected from the game for arguing.

Davenport was credited with a single and Torre charged with an error.

The Giants added an insurance run in the same inning on a single, a walk and a sacrifice fly by Willie McCovey. It was the National League leaders' 16th win in their last 17 games.

Juan Marichal, San Francisco's 22-game winner, pitched the last two innings to preserve the victory for Bill Henry. Willie Mays' 49th home run in the first inning and a homer by Jim Hart in the second gave the Giants a 2-0 lead.

Claude Osteen and Ron Perranoski collaborated in a seven-hitter to pitch the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. The win enabled the second-place Dodgers to remain 3 1/2 games behind the Giants. Jim Lefebvre and Wes Parker hit homers to lead the Dodgers' eight-hit attack.

The Cincinnati Reds fell 4 1/2 games behind the Giants when they split a doubleheader with the Houston Astros.

By United Press International
The Minnesota Twins reduced their magic number to three Sunday by defeating Washington 8-1 behind Jim Perry's well-scattered nine-hitter.

Any combination of three Minnesota victories and Chicago defeats will give the Twins the championship.

Perry had a shutout for seven innings en route to his 11th win. The only Washington run came in the eighth when Don Blasingame and Jim King singled and Frank Howard hit into a run-producing double play.

The Twins attacked starter

Frank Kreutzer for three runs in the first inning. Bob Allison driving in two with a double, Perry helped his own cause when the Twins chased Kreutzer in the fourth with three more runs. Perry drove in two of the runs with a double.

Minnesota added two more in the eighth when Zoilo Versalles singled with the bases full.

The White Sox kept their flickering pennant hopes alive when they downed the Cleveland Indians 7-5. Tommy Agee's three-run double was the big blow of a four-run fourth-inning rally that paved the way for Juan Pizarro to win his sixth game. Don Buford had four hits for the White Sox.

Rich Beck scattered nine hits to beat the Detroit Tigers 3-0 and win his second game for the New York Yankees. Roger Repoz doubled home one run and Ray Barker doubled home two others for the Yankees. Dave Wickersham suffered his 14th loss.

Jim Gosger's inside-the-park home run and Felix Mantilla's two-run single carried Bill Monbouquette and the Boston Red Sox to a 3-2 win over the Kansas City Athletics. Monbouquette pitched an eight-hitter to win his ninth game.

Baltimore's doubleheader in Los Angeles was postponed because of wet grounds.

Nicklaus Captures Portland Golf Title

Portland, Ore. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus became golf's biggest money winner of all time with his fourth straight sub-par round Sunday to win the $50,000 Portland Open Tournament.

It was the third time Nicklaus had won the Portland Open, and it was the second time this year he successfully defended a championship. The other successful defense was in the Philadelphia Open.

Nicklaus, who said he might be playing even better than when he won the Masters tournament this year, had five birdies Sunday and slipped over par on only one hole.

In fact, he slipped over par on only three holes in the four rounds, each time by three-putting.

He did not miss the green in his final round and had only one drive stray from a fairway. As it turned out, that drive also found the fairway, hitting a tree in the rough on the 18th hole and rebounding to the middle of the course.

Besides his five birdies, Nicklaus had seven other putts for birdies of 15 feet or less. They failed to drop.

He felt he had the tournament won when he scored a birdie on the 15th hole. He reached that 502-yard, par 5 hole with two one-iron shots and nearly holed a 15-foot putt for an eagle.

After that, he needed only to play the last three holes conservatively.

Minnesota added two more in the eighth when Zoilo Versalles singled with the bases full.

The White Sox kept their flickering pennant hopes alive when they downed the Cleveland Indians 7-5. Tommy Agee's three-run double was the big blow of a four-run fourth-inning rally that paved the way for Juan Pizarro to win his sixth game. Don Buford had four hits for the White Sox.

Rich Beck scattered nine hits to beat the Detroit Tigers 3-0 and win his second game for the New York Yankees. Roger Repoz doubled home one run and Ray Barker doubled home two others for the Yankees. Dave Wickersham suffered his 14th loss.

Jim Gosger's inside-the-park home run and Felix Mantilla's two-run single carried Bill Monbouquette and the Boston Red Sox to a 3-2 win over the Kansas City Athletics. Monbouquette pitched an eight-hitter to win his ninth game.

Baltimore's doubleheader in Los Angeles was postponed because of wet grounds.

By United Press International
The Minnesota Twins reduced their magic number to three Sunday by defeating Washington 8-1 behind Jim Perry's well-scattered nine-hitter.

Any combination of three Minnesota victories and Chicago defeats will give the Twins the championship.

Perry had a shutout for seven innings en route to his 11th win. The only Washington run came in the eighth when Don Blasingame and Jim King singled and Frank Howard hit into a run-producing double play.

Nicklaus Captures Portland Golf Title

Portland, Ore. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus became golf's biggest money winner of all time with his fourth straight sub-par round Sunday to win the $50,000 Portland Open Tournament.

The $6,600 Nicklaus won boosted his season total to $134,045, breaking the record of $128,230 by Arnold Palmer in 1963.

Nicklaus was 15 strokes under par with rounds of 69-68-68-273 on the par 35-37-72 Portland Golf Club course.

Dave Marr, the PGA champion, was runner-up, three strokes behind Nicklaus. Marr started the day two behind Nicklaus and pulled even at one point but could not match Nicklaus down the closing stretch.

Billy Maxwell captured third place, five strokes behind Nicklaus. Bob Vervey of South Africa was fourth, a stroke behind Maxwell. Billy Casper was fifth, a stroke behind Vervey.

In clipping four more strokes off par Sunday, Nicklaus won his fifth tournament of the season, equalling 1963 which was his best previous year.

It was the third time Nicklaus had won the Portland Open, and it was the second time this year he successfully defended a championship. The other successful defense was in the Philadelphia Open.

Nicklaus, who said he might be playing even better than when he won the Masters tournament this year, had five birdies Sunday and slipped over par on only one hole.

In fact, he slipped over par on only three holes in the four rounds, each time by three-putting.

He did not miss the green in his final round and had only one drive stray from a fairway. As it turned out, that drive also found the fairway, hitting a tree in the rough on the 18th hole and rebounding to the middle of the course.

Besides his five birdies, Nicklaus had seven other putts for birdies of 15 feet or less. They failed to drop.

He felt he had the tournament won when he scored a birdie on the 15th hole. He reached that 502-yard, par 5 hole with two one-iron shots and nearly holed a 15-foot putt for an eagle.

After that, he needed only to play the last three holes conservatively.

Expatriate White Returns To States With Family After 12 Years In China

Kansas City (AP) — At first there was silence from the other side of the Bamboo Curtain, then letters about his life in Red China, and Sunday — after nearly 12 years as an expatriate — William C. White came home to the aunt he calls his mother.

White is the 16th of 21 Korean War turncoats to re-embrace his country. Four still remain in Red China and one died there.

White, a 35-year-old Negro, brought back his Chinese wife and their two children to an indefinite future. "The first thing I must do is get a job," he said. "At the moment I don't have any prospects."

Tearful Reunion
At municipal air terminal before dawn, White had a tearful reunion with Mrs. Bertha L. Johnson, the aunt who reared him. She clutched a football for 6-year-old John and a blonde pig-tailed doll for 4-year-old Ann.

Mrs. White, Hsieh Ping, 30, smiled through it all. She speaks no English. The diminutive Mrs. White spoke in Chinese the only time she addressed her husband.

"I went to China not with the intention to stay," said White. "I went there to learn the Chinese language. I was not a turncoat." He said he received a bachelor's degree in international law from Peking University.

"I may return to school in this country," he said. "After all, I don't have a degree here." He wants work in an academic field. In China he was a translator of children's books.

Real Mother
In Plumerville, Ark., White's real mother—Mrs. Mattie Gorman—said she plans to come to Kansas City to see White but doesn't know when.

"I have to get permission from my doctor," she said. Mrs. Gorman recently underwent surgery in Little Rock.

White has not contacted her directly, she said. "I only heard he was coming from Hong Kong. But I'm glad he's back in the states."

White's aunt sent the money to transport him and his family to this country.

She had told earlier how in the last two years "W. C. has written about how he wants to come back home. He kept saying that he could come, but he wanted to bring his family out." The letters came every two or three months, she said.

Entered Army
She had last seen him in

TEARFUL AUNT . . . greets returning White, and Chinese wife, left.

November, 1948, shortly after he entered the Army. He then went to Korea.

"We were told he was missing in action," Mrs. Johnson said. "We thought he was dead until we received a letter from him in 1952. He was in a prisoner of war camp then."

Later, she said, White wrote from China "to let us know that he was staying because he wanted to. I don't know whether he liked that kind of government. He never talked politics in his letters. He did say that he finally could get a job and live a productive life."

There were 20 other prisoners of war who chose life among their Chinese captors to returning home. Still in Red China are Clarence C. Adams of Memphis, Tenn.; Morris Wills, Fort Ann, N.Y.; Harold Webb, Fort Pierce, Fla., and John R. Dunn, Baltimore, Md.

Sgt. Rufus E. Douglas of Texon, Tex., died in China June 15, 1954.

Little has been heard publicly about the others.

White gave this reply to a question of whether he wants to go back to China: "What do you think. Do you think I want to go back?"

Merrithew To Get Medal For Part In Battle That Made York Famous

Brookline, Mass. (AP) — Otis B. Merrithew, now 69, is going to get the Silver Star for his part in a battle 47 years ago — the World War I battle in which Sgt. Alvin York won the Medal of Honor.

Merrithew's account of the shooting in the Argonne Forest differs from the stories about York.

"Sgt. York and I fought side by side," Merrithew says.

York "unassisted" York was credited officially with putting a German machine gun battalion out of action, "practically unassisted," killing 25 Germans and taking 132 prisoners.

York's life story was told in the 1941 movie, "Sergeant York," with Gary Cooper playing the title role. Another platoon member in the movie was Cpl. William B. Cutting.

Merrithew is Cpl. Cutting. He says he ran away from home to enlist and gave a false name. And he gives this account of the famed incident.

"Seventeen of us went out in a split platoon — what was left of our platoon. We fought our way across an open field.

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plate discomfort. FASTEETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmer so that they feel more comfortable. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH today at drug counters everywhere.

We got to the edge of a woods.

They Opened Up

"We knew there was plenty of Germans in there. We skirmished our way through. Then we met a company of Germans. I'd say. They opened up. On the first blast we lost 10 men. I was wounded and didn't even know it.

"So seven of us scattered and we opened up. We were all pretty good shots. We killed 25 of them. We were killing them so fast their company commander said in broken English, 'We give up, comrades.'

"We lined them up in columns of twos. When we got to the edge of the forest, and there, coming at us, was our company."

Merrithew says he had four bullet holes in his helmet, his gas mask was shot off and a can of corned beef in his back pocket was smashed by bullets. He suffered an arm wound.

A detail took the 132 prisoners back to regimental headquarters, he says, and he took an ambulance "and landed back in the hospital."

"I didn't know we'd done something famous," he says, "until I read about it in the Stars and Stripes back in the hospital."

Merrithew returned to Massachusetts, where he now works as a crane operator at the Watertown Arsenal. During World War II and the Korean War, he relates, he volunteered as a crane operator at the Boston Navy Yard.

Over the years, Merrithew, his family and friends have been trying to get official recognition of his part in the Argonne battle.

Now he has a letter from the Army Department saying he is "entitled" to the award for his "gallantry" in France.

The Army plans to make the presentation at 1st Army headquarters on Governor's Island, N.Y., on Oct. 8 — the 47th anniversary of the battle.

Stone Honors Winston

London P — Queen Elizabeth II unveiled a Memorial stone to Sir Winston Churchill in Westminster Abbey Sunday after a Battle of Britain thanksgiving service commemorating the British air victory over Nazi bombers 25 years ago.

The stone in remembrance of Churchill is in the cathedral's west nave, surrounded by the names of Britain's great men down the years. A short eulogy before the unveiling ceremony was delivered by the dean of Westminster, the Very Rev. E. S. Abbott.

"Overburdened with memories that area may be, but no one," he said, "surely grudges the space given to the memory of the great man whose unassailable verdict on the Battle of Britain was, 'Thus Britain was saved and never was so much owed by so many to so few.'"

The few were Royal Air Force pilots who manned the Spitfire and Hurricane fighters that battled Adolph Hitler's Luftwaffe. Two hundred of them, their heads now grey, were in the congregation.

Prince Philip, Queen Elizabeth's husband, read the lesson. He wore an air marshal's uniform.

Close to the altar sat Sir Winston's widow, Baroness Spencer Churchill with her son, Randolph, and other members of the Churchill family. Prime Minister Harold Wilson, along with cabinet ministers and service chiefs, also attended the service.

The Kansas highway patrol said the westbound Rockwell car was overtaking another car and collided almost head-on with the Bauerle car.

The wreck was on U.S. 36 about a mile west of Hiawatha in the northeast corner of Kansas.

Two-Car Accident In Kansas Kills Five Occupants

Hiawatha, Kan. (AP) — Two cars collided and burned Sunday, killing all five occupants.

The dead are Joseph W. Rockwell, 33, San Francisco; his 23-year-old wife, Carrie; their 2-year-old son, Steven; Karl Bauerle Sr., 67, from near Powhattan, Kan., and Mrs. Bauerle, 60.

President's Luncheon Offer Turned Down By Girl Friend

Washington (AP) — President Johnson invited one of his favorite girl friends to lunch Sunday — and got turned down.

As he was leaving St. Mark's Episcopal Church on Capitol Hill, Johnson spied Courtenay McPherson, whose nickname is Coco, and said to her:

"You want to go home and eat lunch with us?"

Courtenay said she would have to ask her mother and turning to the President said: "Will you wait for me?"

"Yes, if you hurry," Johnson told her.

Courtenay hurried into the parish hall and came running back to say her mother told her she had to attend a picnic.

Courtenay is the 7-year-old daughter of Harry C. McPherson Jr., a presidential assistant, who was among those who accompanied Johnson to the 11 o'clock services.

Also accompanying the President were Mrs. Johnson, their daughter Lynda, another presidential assistant, Jack Valenti and his wife, and the Valenti's daughter, Courtenay.

Library Group's Meeting Public

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Woman Breadwinner Asks Help With Financial Plans

By Merry S. Rukeyser

A professional woman, a reader in Rocky Hill, Conn., with three dependents and an income of $20,000, writes in to ask how best to protect her family in the event she is taken from the scene.

She leans toward term insurance, arguing that she is disciplined enough not to require forced savings.

Rukeyser says, "I am wondering whether I should buy a straight life insurance contract or term insurance."

"I personally feel that the multiple advantages listed for the permanent type of life insurance (cash value, dividends, collateral, face value of policy at maturity, etc.) can be achieved as well by having a balanced diet of investments; savings, mutual funds, good quality common stocks, real estate, etc. This type of investment will offset the dollar depreciation. Since the main purpose of any life insurance is to provide protection for the dependents, I believe term insurance, which gives maximum protection with the least cash outlay, accomplishes this goal better than a straight (permanent) life insurance policy, which requires such big premiums."

"I feel there is a great deal to lose in a straight life insurance due to dollar depreciation. I would greatly appreciate it if you could clarify this matter for me."

This lady is sophisticated, self-disciplined and analytical. Accordingly, she should feel freer to budget her savings than someone with less determination and self control.

Most people are underinsured, and until disposable savings are sufficient to carry a large enough amount of permanent insurance, the pure coverage entailed in term contracts should be considered. The important point is to cover family risks, such as the premature death of the breadwinner, and timing is important. Where term contracts are purchased, it seems desirable to assure durability through either term contracts lasted many years, increasing decreasing term policies which shrink when dependents become self supporting, or to select renewal and possibly convertible term policies.

Life insurance should be viewed as a human tool to meet specific family objectives. When and if other assets grow, it is possible to consider reducing protection from insurance contracts.

Since the merit of an insurance program inheres in tailoring it to specific human goals, the insured should put himself in the hands of a well educated and competent life underwriter. If in doubt, it is well to ask an officer of a local bank or a thoughtful and experienced friend to recommend someone.

Q. A reader in Youngstown, Ohio, with a pre-tax income of $35,000 to $40,000 a year, has $70,000 of permanent life insurance, $100,000 of decreasing term, Social Security and health coverage. He is 39, with a wife and three young children. He has prepaid the premiums for 20 years also on $10,000 of life policies for his three children, he keeps $5,000 to $7,000 in savings, owns a fully paid for residence and has a joint trust fund with his wife in a trust company, which owns his life insurance policies.

He asks whether to start buying stocks or mutual funds and whether he should take out an insurance policy on his wife's life. He states that "I have a rather aggressive life insurance agent." The record of insurance purchases makes the foregoing an understatement.

A. From the standpoint of balance, it would seem desirable to divert additional savings into equities. Since the individual is inexperienced, he should start out with built-in investment supervision from Common Trust Funds operated by trust companies and banks, mutual funds, including "no load" funds and closed end investment company shares, many of which are selling at a discount. Since the husband has ample assets to take care of the decencies in the event of premature loss of his spouse, there is no urgent need of a special policy for this purpose at this time.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent to The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

One of the questions is, "What specific suggestions do you have for improving city services?"

Space is also allowed to ex-

The questionnaire also asks what are the most desirable and least desirable features of living in Lincoln.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Woman Breadwinner Asks Help With Financial Plans

By Merryll S. Rukeyser

A professional woman, a reader in Rocky Hill, Conn., with three dependents and an income of $20,000, writes in to ask how best to protect her family in the event she is taken from the scene.

She leans toward term insurance, arguing that she is disciplined enough not to require forced savings.

At 33, she has $8,000 in cash savings plus 15 shares of General Motors, 70 shares of Radio Corporation and 10 of Pfizer.

She writes: "I am wondering whether I should buy a straight life insurance contract or term insurance."

"I personally feel that the multiple advantages listed for the permanent type of life insurance (cash value, dividends, collateral, face value of policy at maturity, etc.) can be achieved as well by having a balanced diet of investments; savings, mutual funds, good quality common stocks, real estate, etc. This type of investment will offset the dollar depreciation. Since the main purpose of any life insurance is to provide protection for the dependents, I believe term insurance, which gives maximum protection with the least cash outlay, accomplishes this goal better than a straight (permanent) life insurance policy, which requires such big premiums."

"I feel there is a great deal to lose in a straight life insurance due to dollar depreciation. I would greatly appreciate it if you could clarify this matter for me."

This lady is sophisticated, self-disciplined and analytical. Accordingly, she should feel freer to budget her savings than someone with less determination and self control.

Most people are underinsured, and until disposable savings are sufficient to carry a large enough amount of permanent insurance, the pure coverage entailed in term contracts should be considered. The important point is to cover family risks, such as the premature death of the breadwinner, and timing is important. Where term contracts are purchased, it seems desirable to assure durability through either term contracts lasting many years, increasing decreasing term policies which shrink when dependents become self supporting, or to select renewal and possibly convertible term policies.

Life insurance should be viewed as a human tool to meet specific family objectives. When and if other assets grow, it is possible to consider reducing protection from insurance contracts.

Since the merit of an insurance program inheres in tailoring it to specific human goals, the insured should put himself in the hands of a well educated and competent life underwriter. If in doubt, it is well to ask an officer of a local bank or a thoughtful and experienced friend to recommend someone.

Q. A reader in Youngstown, Ohio, with a pre-tax income of $35,000 to $40,000 a year, has $70,000 of permanent life insurance, $100,000 of decreasing term, Social Security and health coverage. He is 39, with a wife and three young children. He has prepaid the premiums for 20 years also on $10,000 of life policies for his three children, he keeps $5,000 to $7,000 in savings, owns a fully paid for residence and has a joint trust fund with his wife in a trust company, which owns his life insurance policies.

He asks whether to start buying stocks or mutual funds and whether he should take out an insurance policy on his wife's life. He states that "I have a rather aggressive life insurance agent." The record of insurance purchases makes the foregoing an understatement.

A. From the standpoint of balance, it would seem desirable to divert additional savings into equities. Since the individual is inexperienced, he should start out with built-in investment supervision operated by trust companies and banks, mutual funds, including "no load" funds and closed end investment company shares, many of which are selling at a discount. Since the husband has ample assets to take care of the decencies in the event of premature loss of his spouse, there is no urgent need of a special policy for this purpose at this time.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

Severe earthquakes in Chile, Greece and Japan have killed and injured hundreds of people this year. Such heavy loss of life is rare but quakes are common.

The most famous geysers of Yellowstone Park, Old Faithful, is really quite tickle. Contrary to the popular belief that clocks can be set by the hourly eruptions, Old Faithful blows its top anywhere from 32 to 34-minute intervals. The average is around 64 minutes, but only half the eruptions occur within five minutes of this average.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
